Officials Hear Stewart Expansion Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Tranportation Authority has presented local officials with its case for converting Stewart Air Force Base near Newburgh, N.Y., into a giant jetport.

A number of the mid-Hudson area officials emerged saying they weren't impressed.

The presentation was staged Monday for about 36 county, city and village officials as part of a four-hour dinner and slide show at a midtown hotel. It was billed as a disclosure of plans drawn up by Transplan Inc., consultants to the MTA, for a $1 billion ultra-modern facility on a site twice the size of Kennedy Airport. MTA public relations employes stood guard at doors to make sure only the invited guests were allowed in.

The disclosure came several days after the basic outlines of the report had leaked out to news media, however--even though the official public release is not scheduled until Wednesday.

"They didn't say anything new," said State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-Con. from Orange County and parts of Rockland and Ulster. "The consultant just got a fantastic fee to draw a picture. It's all pie-in-the-sky."

"I guess we had envisioned pretty much what they talked about," said an aide to Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-Middletown.

"I don't think that any of us found it fully satisfactory," said Orange County Executive Louis V. Mills. "I wasn't that impressed by their in-depth responses. They didn't say anything about impact on the county."

As described by those emerging from the meeting, the Transplan proposal is for a phased development which by 1975 would create a jetport capable of serving as a temporary rail-air terminal 58 minutes from New York City by high-speed rail line. It would have one 12,000-foot runway capable of handling jumbo jets.

By 1980, all three existing runways would be extended to 12,000 feet, and by 1985, two more runways would be built.

The jetport would be completed by 1990, with about 3.2 million square feet of terminal facilities capable of handling about 36 million passengers and four million tons of air freight annually.

Proponents say the jetport is needed to shunt some traffic away from the New York City area's three major airports as congestion increases.

One proposal in the Transplan scheme is for a barrier of greenery as deep as a mile around the airport. But Rod Vandivert, director of the environmentalist Hudson River Valley Council, denounced that part as "like a bandaid on a gaping wound." He, like newsmen, was kept outside the dinner.

The Defense Department transferred the military base to the MTA in 1970. A year later Gov. Nelson Rockefeller approved a $30 million land purchase to increase the site's size.

Transplan's proposals, contained in six massive volumes, has the first phase of Stewart's development the extension of one of the existing runways from 8,000 feet to 12,000 to handle jumbo jets.

By 1975, the jetport would be a temporary rail-air terminal linked by rail with the Erie-Lackawanna Graham line and through the PATH tubes with Penn Station. The planners said air passengerss could reach New York within 58 minutes once the links were completed.

FATAL JUMP—With the parachute still attached, the body of skydiver Steven Campbell dangles from 12,000 volt power lines near Lake Elsinore, Calif. Sunday. The 24-year-old Los Angeles skydiver, who had made 20 to 30 previous jumps, was killed instantly when his parachute was blown into the power lines. Campbell was the third person to die in less than three weeks in a skydiving accident near this site. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

4 Women Hurt in Explosion

Hercules Blast Probed

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN

Police investigators and explosives experts probed through the debris inside an operating building at the Hercules Power Co. site in Port Ewen today, in an attempt to determine why an undetermined number of blasting caps exploded in the face of four workers Monday night.

Mrs. Cora Parker, 29, of 34 Grant Street, Kingston was reported in critical condition today at Albany Medical Center, where she was taken shortly after the explosion. Hospital authorities said today that her left arm and left leg, severely injured in the explosion, were amputated shortly after her arrival at the hospital.

Mrs. Parker also sustained first, second and third degree burns over 90 per cent of her body, according to authorities.

Mary Hummer, 49, of Otis Street, Kingston, sustained severe lacerations of the face and hands as a result of the explosion. She remains in fair condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Two other workers — 56-year-old Rose Donnelly of 179 Bayard Street, Port Ewen, and Catherine Washington, 20, of 91 Broadway, Kingston — were taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance and later released.

The explosion rocked the Port Ewen plant at about 6:30 p.m. Monday. The four women were seated on either side of a long work bench assembling blasting caps when one of the devices exploded.

Company officials were at a loss today to explain exactly what set off the explosion. A spokesman for Hercules Powder Co. said explosives experts from the firm's home office in Wilmington, Del. would arrive today to conduct a thorough investigation.

Zone Sgt. Richard Rauch of the Hurley state police barracks told The Freeman today, "The building has been sealed off. Everything has been left exactly as it was when the explosion occurred. When their man from Delaware arrives we'll try to reconstruct the scene."

There was a dual reason, said Sgt. Rauch, for sealing off the buildings. "Some of those caps could still be alive," he said.

Rauch said several chairs and tables inside the high-ceilinged building were blown over by the force of the explosion, and that a number of blasting caps were still scattered over the floor when police arrived at the scene.

Police don't know how many caps actually exploded, but Rauch said there were about 300 in the immediate vicinity of the worktable when the explosion occurred.

The four women were apparently "crimping electrical connectors together" on the small blasting caps when the explosion occurred.

According to H.I. Etchells, a spokesman for Hercules, there were between six and eight persons working in that particular building at the time of the explosion. There were no other injuries.

"We have no idea what set off the explosion," said Etchells, "We're looking into every possible aspect. There's not much we can say now. We hope to find some answers very shortly."

Etchells said there was no fire involved following the explosion, and that the building itself was not structurally damaged.

Etchels added, "Safety is very important to us. It's our prime consideration in all of our operations."

It Starts With the Lowly Banana

By TIM SCHUSTER

ALBANY

Today the banana, tomorrow the world of frieght.

This was the attitude reflected Monday by Port of Albany officials at a press conference called to announce an ambitious state-wide program to explore the strengths and weaknesses of the port.

With conveyor belts churning in the background in shed 3, officials outlined their goals to complete modernization of the port that was the major reason for the establishment of the city in 1614 by Dutch explorers.

An all-day seminar will be held June 6 at Siena College to acquaint more than 300 of the Capital District's top business, labor, industrial, and civic decision makers with the port facilities and to spell out a program that will attempt to broaden the base of support for the Port of Albany.

The port was established in 1925 with the Cities of Albany and Rensselaer cooperating to fund its operation, and members of Siena's associate board have become involved in a effort to attract potential users and renovate sections of the port.

The banana referred to is the catalyst that made port officials believe it is possible to compete for international freight with the giant to the south, the Port of New York.

The United Fruit Company has been unloading its freighters in Albany since 1971 and has taken advantage of mechanization in the form of three huge gantries and a sophisticated conveyor system to distribute its fruit throughout the upstate New York and Canada, forsaking the Port of New York.

And when the United States shipped grain to the Soviet Union this past winter, the freighters churned out of Albany, the first time since before World War II that the hammer and sickle has flown on the Hudson River.

Special

Some 65 United Fruit Company freighters unloaded in Albany during 1972, and it is stimated that about two a week will distribute their cargo here this year. It has created a small boom for the port, which operates independently of the numerous oil company tank farms that line the river to the north and south.

The port authority has spent about $5 million in recent years to improve its docking and warehouse facilities, including a $2½ million federal loan, and it has all fallen upon the shoulders of the taxpayers in the two cities.

The immediate goal is an estimated $3 million improvement of Shed 1 and the attendant docking area. Mayor Erastus Corning of Albany said that revenue from the oil companies on the river has helped to pay for the port's operations thus far, and he further stated that the Port of Albany is "probably the only port in the state that hasn't received a lot of state and federal money."

Frank Dunham, port manager, stated "We need the facilities before we can sell them," adding that he has been working with the State Department of Transportation in an attempt to raise the needed capital, while labor leaders have also been making overtures to government agencies.

There are about 250 longshoremen working at the port now. The economic impact on the area estimated for last year was some $9 million, with bananas alone accounting for $2½ million.

This was termed a "drop in the bucket" by Dunham in comparison to what the port could generate when fully modernized and fully utilized.

"Ships docked at other major eastern ports sometimes wait days to unload," Dunham said. "In addition to paying a heavy daily docking fee, labor problems and pilferage occur. Several ports lack adequate docking space while others are icebound most of the winter and early spring."

One of the items port officials are proud to comment on is the "world's largest single-unit grain elevator on navigable waters," which holds 13½ million bushels. And the Rensselaer side of the river is one of the largest lumber ports in the northeast.

Another "first" was witnessed Monday by reporters at the Port of Albany. A LASH barge from Barcelona, Spain was being unloaded. It carried a freight of huge packing crates filled with motorcycles, the first of many plannned shipments, according to a company spokesman.

The modular shipping containers and the modern fruit facilities were a far cry from the canoes filled with furs unloaded at the same spot 350 years ago by trappers and traders.

How did Siena College become involved? According to the Rev. Matthew T. Conlin, college president, "Many colleges have boards which do little else than meet annually to hear a report from the college president. This is not the case at Siena. . ."

Say Nixon Aware of Coverup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate scandal continues to boil after fresh reports of evidence that the White House tried to cover up the facts behind the wiretapping.

There were these new developments:

—Sources close to the Senate's Watergate investigation said President Nixon surely was aware of a coverup, and that evidence indicates top presidential aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman participated in the coverup.

—A lawyer for Nixon's campaign finance committee gave court officials three cartons of secret campaign spending records which had been withheld, an apparent violation of an agreement to furnish them last November. He said they include payroll records containing the names of two of the Watergate conspirators.

—Transcripts of testimony before the Watergate grand jury quoted convicted wiretapper James W. McCord Jr. as saying under oath that he had been offered executive clemency if he would remain silent about the conspiracy and serve more than a year in jail.

—White House spokesman Gerald Warren again denied that Nixon had advance knowledge of plans for wiretapping Democratic headquarters last June.

The Senate sources Monday declined to go into detail about evidence of a coverup, but said the operation included "attempts to pressure other officials in the government to go along."

The sources said these other officials included ranking members of the Justice Department and of the FBI.

Ehrlichman and Haldeman, whom the sources said appeared to be part of the coverup operation, have hired a lawyer to represent them in the Watergate case.

The sources said there are indications that Nixon found out about the raid on the Democrats' Watergate offices only after it took place, but was aware earlier that his campaign included a political-espionage operation.

Recently Haldeman told a group of Republican congressmen that he had set up such an operation, but that it was supposed to include purely legal tactics such as clipping newspapers and recording speeches by the other side.

Related Watergate stories on Page 28.

Records that might shed some light on the size and purpose of this Haldeman operation were given to the clerk of the U.S. District Court Monday by Daniel Webster Coon, a lawyer for the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

The documents cover secret campaign spending for 1971 and early 1972. They will be kept under lock and key, available only to lawyers for the Nixon campaign and the citizens' group Common Cause, pending settlement of a lawsuit to force public disclosure of the secret campaign finances.

In the coverup matter, the Senate sources said part of the evidence pointing to a White House whitewash was testimony that wiretapper McCord had given to the Senate Watergate investigating committee.

McCord told the committee he had been offered executive clemency if he would keep quiet about others in the affair, the Senate sources said.

McCord later told a federal grand jury the same thing, according to a transcript of his testimony furnished by columnist Jack Anderson at the request of The Associated Press. Anderson's material appears to be genuine, Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica Monday ordered an investigation to determine where he obtained it. Prosecutors already had asked the FBI to investigate Anderson's source.

According to the transcript, McCord testified that co-conspirator Howard Hunt told him in mid-September: "They are talking about our going off to jail for a period of time and they are taking care of our families while we're going (sic) and then we'd be rehabilitated after we get out."

Executive clemency could be granted only by the president. McCord's references to "they" and "them" in his testimony weren't entirely clear, but at one point he said he had assumed Mrs. Hunt was speaking of Kenneth Wells Parkinson and Paul O'Brien, two lawyers for the Nixon campaign.

Navy Crew Escapes Blaze

HONOLULU (UPI) — A raging fire swept the Navy minesweeper USS Force while it was in the Philippine Sea Monday, but its crew of 70 managed to abandon ship just before it sank. Navy officials reported all aboard were safe.

An air-sea rescue aircraft dropped communications gear to the 65 enlisted men and five officers bobbing in life rafts 820 miles west of Guam. Three ships sped toward the scene.

A spokesman for the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet in Honolulu said, "We can confirm there were no deaths" in the blaze of undetermined origin.

Military sources said it was the first sinking of a Navy ship since the tragic disappearance of the submarine USS Scorpion with 99 men aboard in May, 1968.

The crew lowered lifeboats and abandoned the 750-foot minesweeper Monday after a fire "which could not be controlled" swept through the 165-foot vessel.

A Cincpac spokesman said the ship was en route from Subic Bay in the Philippines to its home port of Guam when the fire was reported. The cause of the fire, or why it could not be extinguished, was not known, the spokesman said.

Sources in Honolulu said the ship was attached to the minesweeping contingent which was involved in clearing Haiphong harbor of mines dropped during the blockade of North Vietnam. The minesweeping operations were suspended last week in retaliation for Communist violations of the cease-fire agreement.

The wooden-hulled vessel was commissioned in 1955 and was commanded by Lt. Jerry Heitzman, whose family lives on Guam.

A Navy spokesman on Guam said that after the men were rescued they would probably be returned to the island and a probe into the ship's sinking would begin.

The ship was one of 45 ocean minesweepers built on the basis of mine warfare experience in the Korean War. The vessel was launched on June 26, 1953, and was equipped with a wooden hull and nonmagnetic equipment.

The vessel was equipped with 40 mm and 20 mm antiaircraft guns and was built for a normal contingent of 72 to 76 men.

Blasting in East Kingston

State Hearing Set Today

By WADE BURKHART

EAST KINGSTON — The State Attorney General's office again is moving against the Colonial Sand and Stone Co. to stop the firm from blasting in a rock quarry in East Kingston, in a hearing today in Schoharie County before State Supreme Court Justice John L. Larkin.

Larkin issued a temporary restraining order against the company last week, barring the company from all surface blasting within the quarry, and from any blasting in the areas of the quarry near homes, according to a spokesman for the Attorney General's Office.

What is being sought before Larkin today is a preliminary injunction against blasting operations in the quarry. Larkin's temporary restraining order will last until he decides on the motion for a preliminary injunction. If a preliminary injunction is granted, it would last until the case finally comes to trial and is decided.

The Attorney General's Office unsuccessfully sought to have blasting operations stopped in the quarry last summer, but Larkin reserved his decision pending his assessment of voluntary measures by the company to curb the blasting complaints. Last summer people complained of flying rock and vibration from the operation.

An Attorney General's Office spokesman said Tuesday his office was going back to court because the complaints against the blasting operation had increased greatly in recent weeks "both in number and intensity."

According to the spokesman, a flying rock incident occurred April 9, and complaints against vibration from the blasting and noise have increased. Some rocks have reportedly struck the roof of nearby St. Colman's Catholic Church.

The spokesman said a "considerable" number of new affidavits had been secured by his office against the blasting operation, and were to be presented before Larkin today.

Reevaluation of Wiltwyck Shares Requested

KINGSTON — Fifteen Wiltwyck Country Club shareholders who have indicated they wish to sell their shares back to the club's new corporation have petitioned in Ulster County Supreme Court asking for a revaluation of their shares.

The 15, who in 1970 were among those who dissented in the reorganization of the club from a membership corporation to a "not for profit" corporation, have retained Charles Gaffney as counsel and brought the special proceeding under corporation law.

Club President Thomas J. Plunket, Kingston lawyer, has retained an Albany attorney, Thomas Conneally, as trial counsel for the corporation.

Gerald Griffin Jr., real estate, appraiser testified that the value of the approximate 300-member corporation, is about $1 million. Debts outstanding run about $300,000 according to testimony taken.

The petition arose out of the reorganization of the club in 1970, according to presiding Justice Harold Hughes who said the corporation has agreed to everything in connection with purchasing back the shares of the 15, except the value of the shares.

Testimony to date has not revealed how much either the petitioners or the corporation feels they are worth.

The 15 shareholders bringing the proceeding include: Louis G. Bruhn, Dr. Bartholomew Dutto, Lester C. Elmendorf, Gordon Fitzgerald, Daniel J. Gaffney, Elsie M. Gaffney, Burton L. Haver, Jacqueline M. Haver, as executrix of the Haver estate; Harry Kapreilian, Joseph F. Marr, Alice Marr, Veronica Olivet, Robert Russell, Edward Strohsahl and George Vogel.

The club, located off Lucas Avenue Ext., near the New York State Thruway, includes in excess of 50 acres with an 18-hole golf course, water holes, pool, and buildings including a clubhouse.

The proceeding is expected to continue in Ulster County Court House Wednesday.

Consumers Congress Sets 'Shopless' Day May 5

COLONIE — Following up on its meat boycott in April, the New York Upstate Regional Conference of the National Consumers Congress—the Irate Housewives organization of Ulster County is a member group — has callled for a boycott on all purchases on Saturday, May 5.

Meeting on Monday at the Colonie Center Meeting Room, the regional conference passed three resolutions.

Serving notice on all elected officials that they will be "defeated" if they do not vote for consumer-supported legislation:

- setting up May 5 as a "shopless day;"
- and asking the news media to make a commitment to publish the voting records of all elected officials on consumer issues. The conference cited the "cynical disregard" of consumer demands by elected officials.

On April 28 the Upstate Regional Conference will be joining with other divisions from New York State at the Church of the Holy Apostles, 300 Ninth Avenue in New York City, to make plans for a national consumers conference this summer.

The Irate Housewives will be meeting at the Old Dutch Church on Wall Street at 8 p.m. on May 2 to discuss plans for the May 5 "shopless day."

Center Plans New Library

KINGSTON — Sam Wilson, president of the Rondout Advisory Board of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, will head a committee to work with the Kingston Children's Library aimed at setting up a chaldren's library at the Rondout Neighborhood Center on Broadway.

Community Organizer Edward Brown also announced that office hours at the Rondout Center have been changed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Planes Clear Way For Counterattack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes in some of their heaviest raids of the renewed Cambodian bombing campaign struck just south of Phnom Penh today to clear the way for expected government counterattacks against Communist troops in the area.

Military sources in Phnom Penh said that for four straight hours, B2 bombers blasted Communist positions today around the battered market town of Takhmau, only five miles south of the capital.

It marked the 48th consecutive day of U.S. air raids over Cambodia and the sources said today's raids were among the most intense of the campaign. American warplanes last week began striking around Takhmau. The raids there are among the closest ever flown to Phnom Penh.

The sources said the stepped-up air strikes were aimed at softening Communist positions for a planned government counterattack against well fortified rebel forces operating around Phnom Penh. But they did not say when the government push would begin.

The Communists have severed all of Phnom Penh's supply lines and a convoy of eight supply ships had to weather a hail of rebel gunfire Monday to sail up the Mekong River from South Vietnam to the besieged capital. Rocket-propelled grenades damaged two of the ships, killed one crewman and wounded three.

Today's air raids again shattered the pre-dawn calm around Phnom Penh and jolted many of the city's two million residents from their sleep. Windows rattled and buildings shuddered throughout the 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. strikes.

Some POWs Scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force colonel who commanded U.S. war prisoners in North Vietnam has bitterly denounced some POWs as cowards "who openly collaborated with the enemy" and even caused physical harm to some of their comrades.

"I intend to do everything in my power to weed these people out of the system," Col. Theodore W. Guy said Monday in a telephone interview from Tucson, Ariz. He said there are fewer than 20 alleged collaborators among the 566 returned POWs. He declined to identify them.

Guy said "I was turned in" by other American prisoners and beaten and tortured because of his efforts to establish communications among the POWs and to organize camp life and discipline.

Guy also said some POWs accepted gratuities from their North Vietnamese captors in the form of extra rations and greater freedom within the walls, and "turned their backs on us."

The former camp commander's accusations shattered the facade of harmony among the returned POWs, bringing into the open for the first time resentments which top Pentagon officials had hoped to smooth over.

Guy acknowledged he had found an official attitude favoring a forgive-and-forget approach.

Catholic Youths Riot In Londonderry

BELFAST (UPI) — Roman Catholic youths rioted at a housing complex on the outskirts of Londonderry early today, burning cars, smashing windows and showering British troops with stones, the army said.

Snipers later fired twice at troops patrolling the Londonderry area but there were no injuries, an army spokesman said.

The outbreak of street violence in the Shentallow housing estate shattered a limited seven-day truce called by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA). The truce had been called to coincide with the opening of a Catholic community festival in Londonderry on Monday.

An army spokesman said the youths began marching through the streets shortly before midnight Monday after soldiers arrested two IRA suspects in the area.

Police identified one of the suspects as 19-year-old Daniel Kennan, who escaped from a Belfast prison three months ago by switching places with a man being released. The other suspect was not identified.

In Northern Ireland violence Monday, a Royal Ulster Constabulary policeman was shot in the head by sniper fire while driving two colleagues through the center of the town of Coalisland, 45 miles west of Belfast. Authorities said the wounded policeman was out of danger.

In the same shooting, a civilian was hit in the leg but police said he was not seriously hurt.

An 18-year-old girl shot in the side by a soldier in Belfast early Monday was described by police as "only slightly injured." The army said the soldier fired when he thought he saw a man waving a gun.

Eight Arrested Of 3rd Force

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — A federal official said today eight members of a "third force" Indian roadblock outside the government's perimeter around Wounded Knee were arrested Monday night for assaulting federal officers.

Richard Hellstern, a deputy assistant attorney general and chief negotiator, said the arrests came after the Indians barred the passage of Community Relations Service (CRS) workers of the Justice Department through the roadblocks.

"The roadblocks no longer exist," Hellstern said. "They were interfering with federal access, suddenly backing off their commitment to allow CRS people to pass through—a problem we thought had been straightened out."

He said Wayne Colburn, director of the U.S. marshal's service, and two of his men went to the roadblock to discuss the halting of CSR workers.

He said there were "no fisticuffs or firing," but the discussion became "so belligerent and rough that we decided to file assault charges against them."

The eight Indians were taken to Rapid City, S.D., where they will be arraigned, Hellstern said.

Dick Wilson, chairman of the Oglala Sioux, said he has called on "all able-bodied Oglala Sioux" to head toward Pine Ridge with their rifles today in order to establish another roadblock at the same site.

Hellstern said Wilson and his supporters would not be allowed to establish another roadblock.

Returned Viet GI's... Only 7.2 Pct Still on Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only 7.2 per cent of former servicemen who were identified as drug users in Vietnam still have the habit, the chief of the Pentagon's drug control program reports.

Dr. Richard S. Wilbur, assistant defense secretary for health, reported the statistic Monday and confessed it surprised him.

"In medical school and over the subsequent years in private practice, I was taught that anyone who ever tried heroin was instantly, totally and perpetually hooked," he said. He said this view had been shown to be a myth.

Wilbur cited results of a $400,000 study of returned GIs made for the government by Washington University of St. Louis, Mo., which involved interviews with 495 veterans identified as drug users while in Vietnam and a control group of 470 randomly selected veterans. The men interviewed finished their Vietnam service in September, 1971, which was believed to be the high point of the Vietnam drug epidemic.

Wilbur said he believed the study showed only from 2,000 to 3,000 former GIs were still on drugs at the present time.

"This is a far cry from some of the more frightening estimates with guesses as high as 200,000," Wilbur said.

He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. Please mention your phone number. You will promptly receive confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Notice to Consumers with Respect to Claims in Connection with Quinine, Quinidine and Other Cinchona Products

An individual plaintiff has commenced an action and the Executrix of his estate has been designated as representative of a class consisting of the following:

All users of quinine, quinidine, other cinchona products, or any other related product or substance, for medicinal purposes in the United States or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

This action seeks damages resulting from alleged violations by the defendants of certain provisions of the antitrust laws. It is alleged in substance that during the period 1958-1966 the defendants conspired to restrain trade and commerce in the manufacture and sale of quinine, quinidine and other cinchona products. It is further alleged that as a result of this conspiracy purchasers of such products have been compelled to pay higher prices than they otherwise would have paid.

The defendants have denied the allegations and have denied liability.

On April 2, 1973, certain of the defendants,* while denying liability, entered into a Stipulation of Settlement with the plaintiff class representative, a copy of which is available for inspection at the Office of the Clerk of the Court, referred to below. Under that Stipulation of Settlement $725,000 plus the income earned thereon, less expenses of the settlement and such amount as the Court might allow in payment to plaintiff's attorneys for their fees and expenses, would be paid to members of the class hereinabove described in settlement of their claims against the settling defendants. The defendants have the right to withdraw from the proposed settlement on certain terms and conditions as set forth in the Stipulation of Settlement. In the event the defendants exercise this option to withdraw, plaintiff's attorneys will have the right to petition the Court for an award from the settlement fund of their fees and expenses to that date.

The class hereinabove described has been established by this Court for the purpose of administering the Stipulation of Settlement.

Now, therefore, take notice:

(1) You will be excluded from the class by this Court if you request such exclusion in writing sent to John J. Harding, Clerk of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, P. O. Box 95, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19105, postmarked not later than May 24, 1973;

(2) If you do not request exclusion from the class by May 24, 1973, you will be included in such class and any judgment whether favorable or not, including any judgment approving any settlement, will be binding upon you;

(3) If you do not request exclusion from the class but prefer in connection with your individual claim to be represented by your own counsel rather than by counsel to the class representative, you may enter an appearance through your counsel but not later than May 24, 1973;

(4) If you do not request exclusion from the class, you must mail to John J. Harding, Clerk of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, P. O. Box 95, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19105, postmarked not later than June 8, 1973, a statement indicating that you intend to file a claim and setting forth your name and full address. If you do not mail such a statement, postmarked not later than June 8, 1973, that will constitute an authorization that money paid in settlement but not allocated to individual claims may be utilized for the public benefit in such manner as the Court may direct;

(5) A hearing will be held before the Court, beginning on June 20, 1973, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon in Room 4 of the United States Court House, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The purpose of the hearing is to determine whether the proposed settlement should be approved by the Court under Rule 23(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. If the settlement is approved and becomes effective in accordance with the terms of the Stipulation of Settlement, this action will be dismissed on the merits as against the settling defendants with prejudice;

(6) A hearing shall be held before the Court in Courtroom No. 4 in the United States Court House, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on June 20, 1973, at 4:00 p.m. for the purpose of determining whether the Stipulation of Settlement, dated April 2, 1973, between plaintiffs and certain of the defendants is fair, reasonable and adequate and should be approved;

(7) Any member of the class who objects to approval of the settlement, or the judgment to be entered thereon, may appear at the hearing and show cause, if any he has, why it should not be approved and why judgment should not be entered thereon. However, any objection must initially be made in writing and filed with the Clerk of the Court on or before 5:00 p.m. on June 4, 1973, showing thereon service of a copy on counsel for plaintiffs, Aaron M. Fine, Esquire, 1214 IVB Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19103 and on counsel acting for settling defendants, Bernard J. Smolens, Esquire, 1719 Packard Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102;

(8) No member of the class shall be entitled in any way to contest the approval of the terms and conditions of the Stipulation of Settlement, or, if approved, the judgment to be entered thereon, unless he has served and filed written objections in accordance with paragraph 7 above, and any member of the class who fails to object in the manner prescribed shall be deemed to have waived, and shall be foreclosed forever from raising any objections except by leave of court for good cause shown; and

(9) If the proposed settlement of this action is approved, it is contemplated that thereafter each class member who has filed a timely notice of intention to file a claim will be given an opportunity to file a claim and will thereafter be given an opportunity to be heard as to the allowance or disallowance of its claim and as to the portion of the settlement fund, if any, to be allocated to its claim.

Dated: April 24, 1973

John J. Harding,
Clerk of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, P. O. Box 95, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19105.

I am not mad, said the Hatter, I'm just hurt!

To think (said the Hatter) that I've been telling all my friends I've been looking for a house to buy, and mortgage money to buy it with, and not one of them told me that Rondout Savings has the fastest mortgage service in town! I'm hurt, that's what I am!

Well . . . all we can say is that we've tried to get the word around. Rondout Savings does have the fastest mortgage service in town. We know the problems people face. We know, once they have made the decision to buy the house, they are anxious to have things settled. Buying a house is no tea-party, and we do everything we can to make things run smoother. And closings faster.

Uncover Plot To Free Hess, Nazi War Leader

RUDOLPH HESS

BERLIN (AP) — Approaching his 79th birthday, Rudolph Hess, Hitler's onetime confidant and deputy, was back in the headlines Monday with a report of a hijack plot to free him from Berlin's Spandau Prison.

A 29-year-old German activist told over the weekend of a scheme to hijack a British airliner to Moscow in an attempt to force the Soviets to agree to the Nazi leader's release, authorities said.

West German officials said Carl Holzapfel, who has been active in protests against the Berlin Wall, told them he and nine other persons were planning to take over a British European Airways jet during a flight from Stuttgart to Berlin.

In a letter to the newspaper Bild am Sontag, Holzapfel said he changed his mind about the scheme when he learned his accomplices planned to use dynamite as a threat and innocent persons might get hurt.

Hess, Hitler's onetime deputy, will be 79 on Thursday and has been imprisoned for 32 years from 1941 to 1946 in Britain and in Spandau since his conviction at Nuernberg. He is known to be in poor health, with a heart murmur, a once ruptured ulcer, prostate problems and failing faculties.

His once thick black hair is gray and sparse, he is stooped, and his teeth are false, but the eyebrows above his sunken eyes are still heavy and dark.

Except for a four-month period at the nearby British Military Hospital for treatment of his ulcer, Hess has been in virtual solitary confinement since 1966 when the last of the other six top Nazis jailed with him completed their 20-year terms.

Hess was found guilty at Nuernberg of plotting and carrying out aggressive war and sentenced to life in prison but was not convicted of any war crimes.

The Russians contended that he should have been hanged and have rejected the pleas of the British, endorsed by the Americans and the French, to set the old man free on humanitarian grounds.

Conservation In Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

Students at the Ellenville Elementary School will observe Conservation Day on April 27 by participating in a variety of educational activities dealing with conservation and the environment.

The students have been asked to write poems and stories on conservation and ecology, and will become physically involved in "beautifying" the school area that day.

"We hope that these activities will help to impress upon our students a lifelong acceptance of personal responsibilty for our environment," said M. Carson, assistant principal of the elementary school.

DAR Lauds POWs; Opposes Aid to North Vietnam

KINGSTON

The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution adopted two resolutions concerning prisoners of war and no aid to North Vietnam at a recent Continental Congress in Washington, D.C.

In tribute to the returned prisoners of War, the National Society, DAR, expressed its "unlimited pride and gratitude for the incredible bravery and endurance of these men who embody the religious and patriotic convictions that have served and preserved us since the birth of the Republic."

The National Society, in its second resolution, opposed any United States Aid to North Vietnam. The resolution noted that "this massive program...is contrary to any previous action by the United States of America since aid to former enemies has been given only after all conflict has ended and to governments which supported freedom for all their people."

Mrs. Adam H. Porter of Kingston, vice chairman of the National Society, reported locally on the two resolutions. The Congress was held April 15 through 19 at the nation's capitol.

Freeman Readers Write the Editor

Esopus Creek

Editor, The Freeman:

I wish to submit the following letter concerning the plight of the Esopus Creek, to your "Freeman Readers Write the Editor" section. If for one reason or another you do not wish to use my letter, please return it to the above address. I shall thereafter remain one of the millions of silent Americans.

The Esopus Creek runs past my back yard. Two small rapids run into the Esopus Creek, approximately a quarter of a mile up from where I live in old Hurley. These two rapids join, and deposit a load of rock and dirt in the shallow water there.

Over a span of three years, what once was a creek that spanned 150 feet across the entire length of the creek, is now but a mere 15 feet wide where the two rapids join. Many of the people who live along the creek, and who depend on it for their water have complained to local politicians and authorities of this situation.

Nothing has been done yet, and I doubt if anything shall be done until this part of the Esopus reaches a crisis stage, where perhaps no water will pass by. Local authorities and other political types continually say, "I would like to help, but my hands are tied. I'll refer you to someone else."

This goes on back and forth. I wonder who will take, or rather be handed the blame for the destruction of a waterway in the end.

Now that you are familiar with the situation that exists, I wish you to read the following. Hark, do I hear the moans of a dying creek crying for help? Yes, I do, and it is the Esopus Creek, one of nature's finest works. It is dying because of man's lack of interest in a project that does not attract votes for political gain.

I have in my childhood seen the beauty of the Esopus Creek. But, tell me will my children, or even my grandchildren be able to see a live, working creek? Or will they witness its remains, a polluted mudhole!

I plead with you, perform surgery on a creek that does not want to die. Bring the Esopus back to life by caring about its future.

Sincerely,
BONNIE SCHREIBER

Open Letter

Executive Committee
Gardiner Homeowners Association
Gardiner, New York

Dear Members:

I submit the following in response to your request for a letter, of not more than one hundred words, as to why I am OPPOSED to the MULTI-MEMBER DISTRICTS, as proposed by local law No. 2, 1973:

COMPARISON —
SINGLE MEMBER DISTRICT
1. Constitutional
2. Lives up to the one man-one vote rule.
3. Legislative candidates are nominated by the enrolled voters at a party caucus.
4. Candidates accountable to the people.
5. Results in good government
6. Does not discriminate against any group
7 .Home Rule — closer to the people (population 4280)
8. Taxpayers get more consideration

MULTI-MEMBER DISTRICT
1. Unconsittutional
2. DOES NOT
3. Legislative candidates are selected by the Party's County Committee
4. Candidates accountable to Party "bosses"
5. Leads to corruption in government
6. Discriminates against all minority groups
7. Less Home Rule — 8th Legislative District (population 30,160)
8. Big business and select few get the consideration

I strongly feel that it is the duty and obligatior of the Homeowners Assocation to hold a public meeting.

I suggest that Legislators Savago and Bevier join me in a discussion on Local Law No. 2, 1973, since they voted for it and supported it. At that time questions from the floor could be answered.

Yours truly,
GEORGE MAJESTIC
Supervisor

Gasoline Fly

Editor, The Freeman

If it weren't all so ridiculous it would be funny.

We appear to have worked ourselves into a real corner with respect to our fuel supplies. The front page story in the April 19th editiion of The Freeman tells of drastic gasoline shortages and of the prospects of paying even a dollar a gallon for something that last year cost only 29.9 cents. Still the automobiles that we manufacture and buy seem to be engineered to consume as much gasoline as possible short of punching a hole in the gas tank. Some friends paid us a visit last week in their brand new car . . . a vehicle described by Detroit as a middle sized compact, whatever THAT is. It gets eight miles to a gallon of gasoline. A van-type vehcile I have occassion to drive quite often, delivers 10 miles to a gallon. Does this make any sense?

And then, last week, the House of Representatives rejected a proposal that would have allowed states to use certain revenue sharing funds for mass transit instead of for highways, as had originally been intended.

That's just great. We'll have plenty of highways, and plenty of automobiles, but no gasoline. It's going to be no fun at all pushing my car the length of the New York State Thruway when I go to visit friends in the city.

As David Brinkley asked during a television commentary one recent night: "What kind of a hot dog is this?"

Sincerely,
ROBERT DAVID

Not His Heroes

Editor, The Freeman:

I for one felt that credibility was stretched beyond the outer limits of the Twilight Zone as one by one our POWs came merrily bouncing off the planes from Operation Homecoming, healthy, reasonably well fed and in obvious high spirits to offer a snappy salute before describing how they were tortured every day for eight years. Somebodys' been scripting our 'heroes' so well Rod Serling could take creative writing lessons from them.

No POWs in history have been returned in such excellent condition as have our own from this war, yet 'concerned' Americans seem hypocritically oblivious to the fact that a number of the POWs released by South Vietnam appeared hardly able to stand up.

Most of our POWs are high ranking officers and can largely be divided into 3 categories — Air Force Bomber Personnel, CIA, or Speical Forces. Significant numbers of them were shot down while in the commission of war crimes. Not only did they bomb hospitals, schools and dykes, but over the years America's 'heroes' have bombed every single church off the face of North Vietnam. What kind of treatment did these men deserve? It is a credit to Hanoi that they have been allowed to come home at all.

A number of the POWs have cited solitary confinement for as much as a year at a time as an example of extreme mental torture, and America has responded in pious shock and vindictive outrage. "How dare they do this to our 'fine young boys'?" goes the cry. But where were these shocked Americans when Angela Davis spent 2½ years in solitary confinement without trial, suffering vision impairments from lack of light and sufficient exercise, only to be found innocent after all?

We are now sold the bill of goods that America's involvement in Vietnam and the death of 56,000 of those young Americans is justified in this 'honorable', 'proud' return of 600 cold blooded murders that had no business being there in the first place.

All in all, Nixon has his glory, and the American people, inventive rascals that they are, having once again accomplished the seemingly impossible by climbing to a new plateau of stupidity and gullibility.

Sincerely,
PAUL ATKINSON
Chairman,

Pet Population

Editor, The Freeman:

I hope this letter will reach people who have pets. Ask yourselves what is an animal? Is it a thing, a possession to be discarded when you tire of it? Or when it no longer serves your purposes? No. It is a living, breathing, sensitive creature — it can feel, love and suffer.

Through ignorance, selfishiness or indifference, we allow our pets to breed, adding to the existing surplus and causing the destruction of more animals. If you own a pet that is not spayed or neutered, please have it done.

I do wish we would get the cooperation from our local vets to lower their fees — particularly for pet owners who can not afford the stiff fees. Surely the vets, who make their living on animal care, are well aware of the millions of unwanted animals put to death each year.

So many persons are all in a tizzy about over population of the cats and dogs? No woman I've ever heard of gives birth to five and seven children at one time, three and four times a year.

Please neuter and spay your pets. All surplus animals are destroyed to make room for more surplus. Could you pick out the ones to be put to death?

Sincerely,
DOROTHY GALITZKY
Kingston

Only Half Done

Editor, The Freeman:

The last of the 587 American POW's have returned to freedom in America. It has given joy and happiness to many Americans to see these men come home after being held captive for many years by the Communists of Vietnam. I for one was most elated and joyful to see these step off the planes and become free men once again.

But, our job is only HALF done. 1328 Americans are still listed as Missing in Action in Southeast Asia. Many of these men were known to have been alive after they had parachuted from their stricken aircraft. We should not forget them.

The 587 POW's made it back by the Grace of God and because a small percentage of Americans cared and went out and helped. By the grace of God you and I can do the same for the 1328 MIA's. Get involved in the humanitarian issue. What can you do ? ? ? ? Pray for them, write to elected representatives in Washington, tell others about these men because many Americans to this day do not know what MIA means. Wear your POW-MIA bracelet as a constant reminder that these men are still Missing in Action. Lets not have a repeat of the Korean War tragedy when 389 Americans were left behind and forgotten.

President's Turnabout

President Nixon's reversal of his position on who may testify at the Watergate hearings, and under what conditions, is welcome news to a nation surfeited with the charges and countercharges surrounding the case.

It is evident that he has had second thoughts on the matter and succumbed to pressures from members of his own party.

The President did not do a complete aboutface. He told a press conference he was still reserving the right of executive privilege "which might be asserted during the course of questioning." And he made clear that the arrangement is one that covers this hearing only in which wrongdoing has been charged.

This is perfectly proper in that it will preclude any witch-hunting by the Senate Select Committee headed by Democrat Senator Ervin.

But at least it means that White House aides finally will appear voluntarily when requested by the committee and will testify under oath. And now that the President has changed his mind it appears that he is ready to go all the way. He pointed out that any person indicted by the grand jury would be suspended immediately and, if convicted, would be automatically discharged.

In making the announcement, Mr. Nixon revealed that there had been major developments as a result of a new White House inquiry. One wonders what these developments can be in view of all that already has been said with regard to the Watergate spy case.

It is quite apparent that new names will be brought into the case or at least new information divulged, affecting persons already involved.

Republican leaders are especially happy with the President's new attitude. It was just a few days ago that Sen. Barry Goldwater had pointed to the disastrous effects Mr. Nixon's previous adamant stand was having on the party.

But as these columns have noted right along, the issue is bigger than an individual or a party.

As Senator Weicker of Connecticut observed, "With both the executive branch and the legislative branch charging after the truth, we stand a much better chance of getting the truth."

Basically, that's all the nation wants.

Huge Drugnet

For 15 months, agents of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and police of New York and Detroit had been investigating the evidence. They turned up enough to get indictments for 86 reputed drug dealers, including a Saugerties resident. Concerted raids were then staged, with swarms of agents and police, so there would be no tell tale leaks that the biggest roundup of narcotics dealers was underway.

By morning of the raid, 65 of those indicted had been arrested—61 in the New York metropolitan area and four in Detroit. Sixteen were already in jail on narcotics and other charges. As the deputy police commissioner in charge of the police and detective detachment said, "This is a historic night."

The chief planners were Daniel Casey, regional director of the federal bureau, and Deputy Police Commissioner William McCarthy. It was an outstanding job. The arresting officers, armed to the teeth, worked in teams. There was no violence. The raid was overwhelming.

An electric bug planted in an East Harlem bar revealed the major drug dealers who supplied a large portion of the heroin and cocaine as far west as Detroit. Investigators, employed wiretaps, night photography, auto-tailing, ultraviolet powders, marked bills and helicopter surveillance. The suspects' activities were recorded in 106 reels of motion picture film.

U. S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour Jr.'s office secured the sealed indictments. Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan called the operation "the most successful example of cooperation between local and federal agencies!" It is an example that can help reduce major crime, if followed in other big cities, the country over.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Chapin Admits Hiring Informant

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's recently resigned Dwight Chapin, has confessed to a grand jury that he received regular written reports on the Democratic presidential candidates from Donald Segretti.

Earlier, Segretti refused to answer questions, on grounds of self-incrimination, about his activies as a Republican spy-saboteur.

Chapin swore behind closed doors that he hired Segretti, directed his activities and received reports in the mail from him. The reports contained information, which Chapin described as "virtually useless," on Sens. George McGovern, Hubert Humphrey, Ed Muskie, Henry Jackson and Gov. George Wallace.

"What have you done with these reports?" asked prosecutor Earl Silbert.

"I destroyed them," said Chapin, "usually the day that they were received. And if I may add, they were just one or two lines. It was something, for example, of 'Muskie rally, poor attendance, people unenthusiastic. Candidate was 40 minutes late,' or something."

'No One's Business'

Under bristling cross-examination, the handsome, haughty Chapin offered no explanation for apparent contradictions and once he declared imperiously that the employment of Segretti to sabotage the Democratic presidential campaign was none of the taxpayers' concern.

Chapin said he had given Segretti general instructions to go ahead with a sabotage campaign and had obtained White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman's approval afterwards.

"In other words," asked prosectuor Seymour Glanzer incredulously, "somebody had condoned it after you decided to do it. Where in the world would you get the idea that you had the authority to go out and do it?"

"Well, I had authority to do a lot of things," retorted Chapin. "I had the authority to plan a presidential trip to China. I sure as hell had the authority to go and do some other things."

'Who Asked You To?'

"But somebody asked you to plan the trip to China, didn't they?" Glanzer shot back. " . . . namely, the President."

"Yes."

"All right," pressed Glanzer, "who asked you to go out and recruit somebody to do (political sabotage work)?"

"I don't know that anybody asked me to do it." Chapin conceded only that Haldeman had given his approval.

He described Segretti as "an astute person who knows what is going on and he knows what the issues are."

"But the reports he sent back," Galnzer noted, "you said were virtually useless."

"That's right," admitted Chapin. "I think you've got to put it in perspective. He probably was just in an infant stage . . ., he was in a learning process when he was sending that stuff. It was absolutely useless to us. I don't believe that we ever got one piece of information from Mr. Segretti in any way, shape or form that was useful . . ."

'Wasn't That Naive?'

"What steps," asked Glanzer, "did you take to make sure that this man, who was very bright yet in an infant stage, would not do something that would be embarrassing for the White House?"

"None."

"Wasn't that," broke in a juror, "rather naive for a gentleman like yourself who had been through so many campaigns prior to this, Mr. Chapin?"

The former presidential appointment secretary testified that he asked President Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, to pay Segretti but gave him no guidance on how Segretti was earning his money. Chapin also insisted he had no idea what financial arrangements were worked out.

"How," asked prosecutor Donald Campbell, "was Mr. Kalmback to know the scope of Mr. Segretti's activities in order to know what expenses or what monies he would have to allow Segretti for expenses?"

"I don't know," shrugged Chapin.

"I mean he had no way of knowing whether he would get two dollars a week or two thousand dollars a week, right?"

"That is correct."

No Guidance

"You never gave Mr. Kalmbach any guidance in that respect?" asked Campbell incredulously.

"No."

"Isn't that a little unusual?"

"It may be unusual," responded Chapin, "but that's true."

A juror, citing newspaper accounts that Segretti was paid a $16,000 salary and expenses, asked: "Isn't that pretty high for somebody to do such low-grade work?"

"I think that's a subjective thing," said Chapin.

The juror asked about Segretti's work as a legal assisant in the Army before he was discharged and went to work for the Republicans as a political spy-saboteur.

"He wasn't getting that salary in the Army, was he?" broke in Glazner.

"I don't know if he was getting that salary in the Army," replied Chapin. "As a taxpayer, I would like to complain if he was."

"Well it might be," snapped Glanzer, "that taxpayers want to complain about him getting that salary doing the work he was doing (for the Republicans)."

"That's none of their concern," retorted Chapin. "This is a private enterprise."

The Law's Protection

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Mr. Richard Brandshaft of Los Angeles, a gentleman of philosophical turn of mind, is greatly concerned by the developing ironies of the law, of which the airplane searching procedures are a case in point.

The law, in its fits and its starts, tends to focus on a problem so concentratedly as to neglect the problems of inconveniences that are brought on by the projected remedy. A recent calculation reveals that at the rate at which historically people hijack airplanes, it would take 30 years of frisking all the passengers that fly every day from Washington, D.C to Newark, New Jersey, in order to detect one man with a gun.

A few months ago an airliner made a hard landing in Chicago and a fire started in the cabin. About a dozen people were killed by the poison gas generated by the burnt furnishings. Mr. Brandshaft was curious about why the stewardess had not opened the rear exit of the 727 to let the toxic gas escape. He discovered that the anti-hijacking mania had resulted in the FAA's disconnecting the switch to the rear exit from inside the plane. Better, one concludes, to prevent a hijacker from parachuting out of the airplane, which was the preferred means of egress a summer or two back, than to prevent the death of a dozen people who cannot use that exit when needed.

Now Mr. Brandshaft discovers, it is conjectured that a driver is on balance better off wearing his seat belt that is properly buckled than he will be after the air bags are installed. The reason air bags are installed is because people won't buckle their seat belts. Accordingly, the man who does buckle his seat belt is exposed to the risk of an imperfectly functioning air bag in order to compensate for the deliquency of the driver who doesn't bother to buckle his seat belt.

Mr. Brandshaft turns his attention to what he chooses to call the "heroin price support program." The federal government has not in fact made heroin less available, it has merely made it more expensive. By making it more expensive, the government increases the rewards to the pushers. Simultaneously, the addict requiring more and more money to sustain his habit, is tempted towards crime.

Although recent data established that only a small percentage of addicts commit felonies in order to finance their habit, the number who do is nevertheless signifcant. You have then the situation of punishing, and sometimes even crippling, the muggee, in order to attempt, imperfectly, to protect the mugger.

Mr. Brandshaft cites the obsolescence of LSD as an example of what might have happened to heroin if it had become universally available. LSD was inexpensive, and easy to produce. A few years ago it was the rage. Now it is very little used. The drug-consuming community discovered its dangers, and there was little in it for the pushers. Market factors are combined to diminish the consumption of it.

My own feelings is that heroin should continue to be outlawed on the grounds that it is in effect a contagious sickness (i.e., heroin users are effective evangelists for the drug, contaminating other people), and I would argue that effective judicial and prosecutorial reforms would increase the price of heroin to the point of putting it beyond the reach of even the most efficient mugger.

But Mr. Brandshaft is clearly on to something when he revised the idea of John Stuart Mill that the law ought not to concern itself with protecting people from themselves. He cites as an ideal arrangement the motorcycle dealer in California who requires the renter of his machine to sign an acknowledgment that a helmet as proffered by the dealer and then declined. Here, he observes, is an intelligent conciliation of public concern, and individual prerogative. An application of that principle to the airline would halt the vexing and apparently pointless search procedures.

Congress May Find a Better Way

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration's new approach to cities is called the Better Communities Act, no-strings-attached bloc grant of $2.3 billion for city governments.

"We have tried to be as fair as we possibly could in the distribution formula," says Housing Secretary James T. Lynn. That seems true, but what also seems true under the new bill is that some communities will be better off than others.

What is also vividly true is that the better-off communities are largely those that are home to residents of the Nixonian "new majority." Those worse off in the HUD formula are the old, crumbling cities of the Northeast that house Democratic voters.

Let's take President Nixon's various hometowns first. Washington, D. C., received $57.6 million from the categorical grants "folded into" the bloc grant in 1972. Under the new HUD formula Washington gets only $40.2 million.

In Republican Florida Miami goes up, from $1.8 million to $2.8 million. Broward County goes from a $6,000 annual allotment to $1.5 million annually.

Counties do well under the Better Communities Act. Orange County in California goes from $27,000 annually to $1.4 million. Small towns also prosper. Whittier, Calif., goes from a zero allotment to $212,000 each year.

Some big cities share in the bonanza, too, but they are generally cities experiencing economic boom, anyway. Phoenix, Ariz., goes up from $1.1 million to $2.7 million. Dallas, Tex., rises from $2.6 million to $4.2 million.

In the Northeast, New York City loses and Westchester County gains. Boston falls short and Essex County encounters a windfall.

Secretary Lynn and his cohorts did indeed try to be fair. They drew up criteria of population, the amount of overcrowded housing in a community and the number of poor people. The poverty factor was, in fact, double-weighted.

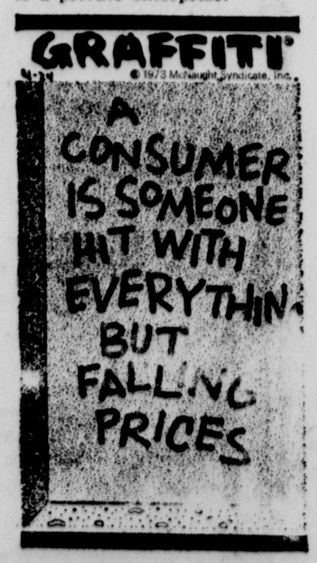

Poverty and poor housing exist in small towns and rural areas, but hardly in the lopsided ratios reflected in the Administration formula.

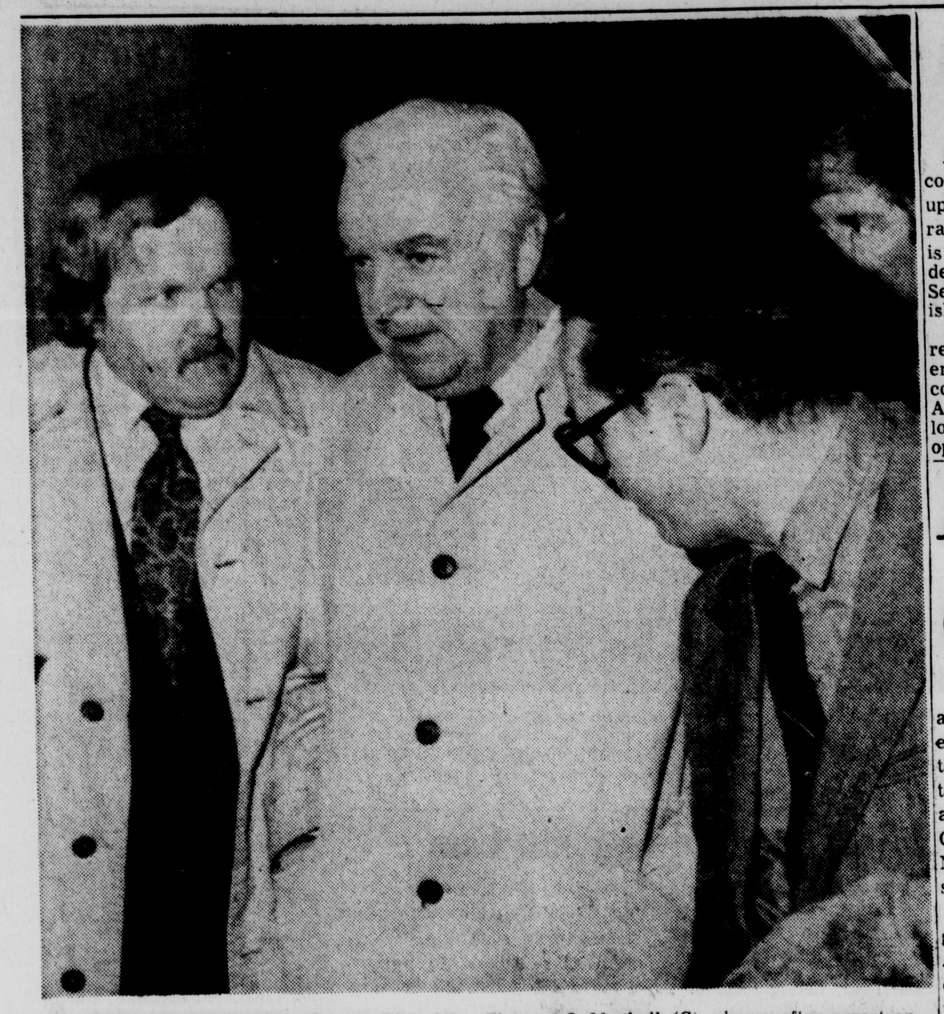

The problem is with the source of the money in the Better Communities bloc grant. Tossed into the new blender were $134 million worth of water and sewer grants, aimed mostly at small towns, plus $1.2 billion for urban renewal, the much-maligned but still-functioning staple of many city budgets.

When money from a half-dozen sources is spread out, it can be applied equally, but the problems being treated aren't equal. Nowhere in the HUD formula is there a recognition that old cities provide metropolitan area-wide services for suburban commuters on their daily visits. Police, fire and sanitation departments serve commuter and resident alike, but residents pay the taxes.

Urban renewal, for all its flamboyant follies, did create more tax revenue for many cities. For all of its red tape, federal money did manage to struggle through and reach municipal treasuries.

"The Better Communities Act is intended to replace inflexible and fragmented programs and to reduce the excessive Federal Control," said President Nixon in sending the bill to Congress. Congress may find a better way.

SUBMITS RESIGNATION—Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell (C), shown after arrest on April 11, submitted his resignation—effective in 30 days—to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller on Monday. Mackell, 59, was indicted on April 11 on charges of criminal conspiracy, official misconduct and hindering prosecution. Indictment stemmed from the handling by Mackell's office of a get-rich-quick scheme allegedly involving members of his staff. (UPI Telephoto)

Lengthy Albany Debate Ahead

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A controversial resolution calling upon Congress to deal with the racial busing of school children is expected to touch off lengthy debate on the floor of the State Senate shortly after the Legislature reconvenes.

The resolution, which has already been passed by nine other legislatures around the country, was approved by the Assembly earlier this month following emotional objections by opponents.

Democrats and minority members of the Senate are expected to battle the Republican-sponsored resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to deal with the busing issue.

Nine states have already passed the resolution, but, if it wins Senate approval as supporters predict, New York would become the first major industrial state in the Northeast to back the proposal.

In Washington, the Senate Judiciary Committee recently held hearings on the issue of "racial busing" and left the impression that any changes will have to come from the states and not the halls of Congress.

The request for the amendment is now before the Senate Finance Committee, which handles all resolutions, and is expected to reach the floor for debate "very shortly," according to Sen. Martin J. Knorr, its chief Senate sponsor.

Knorr, a Brooklyn Republican, said he "expects the resolution will come up for debate shortly after the recess is over, especially in view of the fact it has already been approved in the Assembly."

Both houses of the legislature meet Wednesday following a 12-day Passover-Easter recess.

The resolution would request Congress to call a constitutional convention to deal with an amendment that would prohibit the busing of children to achieve racial balance in schools. Two-thirds of the states would have to adopt similar resolutions before Congress would be required to act.

"Attempts to force children to attend non neighborhood schools have been disastrous," Knorr said. "It has only polarized the country. There is no evidence that any good has been accomplished by it."

Supporters contend that busing has been "imposed by the courts in violation of the spirit of the constitution."

Opponents strongly contend that the busing practice can reduce racial tensions by developing an exchange of experiences among black and white students.

During the Assembly debate, Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve, D-Buffalo, labeled the resolution "a slap at the face of God and a slap at the face of the people."

Black Assemblywoman Estelle B. Diggs, a Bronx Democrat, broke into tears during the debate and predicted the resolution "will only bring about more hatred and bitterness in this country."

The call for a constitutional convention, known as the "Michigan Resolution" in recognition of the first state to pass it, is now under consideration by 25 states, in addition to New York.

Other states which have already approved it are Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Wayne Connally, the brother of former treasury secretary John Connally, is heading an organization that is trying to muster the support of at least 34 state legislatures needed for congressional action.

During the recent series of congressional hearings on busing, none of the advocates held out hope of such an amendment getting the support of two-thirds of either the Senate or the House.

Lawyer to Seek End Of State's Death Penalty

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An attorney for convicted cop-killer Martin J. Fitzpatrick, sentenced to the electric chair three years ago, says he will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary to overturn New York State's death penalty statute.

Attorney Bruce Winick argued before the state Court of Appeals Monday in the first challenge to New York's death penalty since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled against capital punishment last year.

Winick contended that Fitzpatrick's conviction should be overturned because certain evidence was obtained unconstitutionally and that the death sentence should be thrown out because it violates the Supreme Court decision.

New York's law permits the death penalty in cases in which a policeman is killed in the line of duty or in which a convict serving a life term murders someone in prison or during an escape attempt. But the law gives the jury the right to decide whether or not the death penalty should be imposed.

Fitzpatrick, 37, of Syracuse, was convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of two policemen in Oneida County after a $400 gas station robbery in September 1969. Four other men have been sentenced to death since the legislature restricted the death sentence in 1965. All are sitting on Death Row at Greenhaven prison.

The Supreme Court ruled in a case last June that the death penalty was "cruel and unusual punishment." But a majority of the justices, in separately written opinions, said capital punishment would be constitutional if a legislature narrowly defined its applicability, stating explicitly the crimes punishable by death.

Winick argued Monday that New York's law is too permissive in leaving discretion to the jury to meet the test of constitutionality set down by the justices.

"Since the New York statute leaves the discretion to the jury, it is clearly unconstitutional," he said.

Oneida County Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel C. Wilson, representing the state, countered that New York has "the most refined and advanced" death penalty in the nation.

"The position of the People of New York is that the legislature has set sufficient guidelines for the death penalty," he said.

Wilson was asked by Associate Judge Charles Breitel whether he believed the granting of discretion to the jury constituted a strict guideline.

Breitel went on: "The jury has no standard to what it should decide either way. It doesn't say what kind of horrible act would mandate such a sentence."

Wilson replied that the New York law could be viewed as "a limitation of the death penalty" by the legislature and therefore in line with what the Supreme Court has recommended.

Skylab Crew Starts the Isolation Period

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The crew of the first Skylab mission entered a 21-day isolation period today to avoid exposure to infectious diseases that could force a last minute change of astronauts.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Paul J. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, who are scheduled to spend 28 days in space aboard the giant Skylab workshop starting next month, will live at the Johnson Space Center in a trailer house.

All persons who will come in contact with them before the flight must have physical checks. The number of contacts is limited to only those employes involved in the astronaut's training and service, or their families.

The health crew stabilization period was instituted after Thomas K. Mattingly II was kept off Apollo 15 in April, 1970, because he was exposed to German measles just before launch. John L. Swigert, a backup crew member, took his place.

The Skylab 1 backup crew, Russell L. Schweickart, Dr. Story Musgrave and Bruce McCandless, also will be isolated for the 21 days before launch.

The workshop will be launched unmanned May 14 and Conrad, Weitz and Kerwin are scheduled to be launched the next day. Their command module will dock with the workshop and they will live in the vehicle for up to 28 days.

They will return to Earth, leaving the workshop in orbit to be visited by two more crews for up to 56 days each.

During the preflight isolation period and for 18 days after their return, the astronauts will eat the same food as they will have on the spacecraft. The special diet is essential to the medical tests that will tell physicians if man is able to live in weighlessness for extended periods.

Gas Causes a Ghost Town

WILLIAMSBURG, Mich. (AP) — Williamsburg is virtually a ghost town.

The doors of empty houses stand open. Windows are raised. Laundry hung out to dry flaps unattended on a clothesline. The sounds of a community at work and at play have given way to silence.

This village of 200 persons is deserted because of a sudden, inexplicable series of natural gas eruptions.

Since Wednesday, natural gas has broken through the ground in hundreds of places and filled a mile-square area with fumes.

"We first told 'em it would be at least a week before they could get back," said Traverse County Sheriff Richard Weiler of the men, women and children who call Williamsburg home. "Now we're talking at least two weeks."

But other officials said it may be several months before life gets back to normal in Williamsburg. Nearly every structure in the town is over or near one of the many blowholes caused by gas eruptions.

Extensive damage already has been caused in the village. One blowhole erupted near the town hall, seriously undermining the structure, built in 1889. Another is eating away Michigan 72, and the highway probably will have to be rebuilt.

Several neatly trimmed front lawns in the village now feature ugly mud basins as much as 10 feet across and more than five feet deep.

Publishers' Chairman: 'Newspapers Are Healthy'

NEW YORK (AP) — Davis Taylor, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said Monday that daily newspapers had maintained a healthy economic posture despite economic controls and growing inflationary trends.

"Daily circulation reached a record high of over 62.5 million copies sold each day," said Taylor who is chairman and publisher of the Boston Globe.

"We saw an increase in the number of daily newspapers published, in newspaper employment and in total advertising revenue. We also saw more investments made by daily newspapers for plant expansion and modernization then ever before."

He also said that newsprint consumption had reached a record high of 10.3 million tons, up seven per cent from the previous year.

He said it was the largest increase in newsprint consumption in U.S. history and warned: "Supply and demand are in precarious balance at this time."

"Mills are operating at or near capacity, and very little new capacity is on the horizon for the next few years," Taylor said.

"A sudden surge in the economy in the months ahead concurrently with strikes against newsprint manufacturers, which are certainly within the realm of possibility, would present serious problems for all publishers."

He said the current conflict between newsmen and the government is not a private conflict being waged by publishers for "privilege" of informing the people.

"Rather this is a time of trial, a time when newspapers must raise their collective voice and defend the American people's need to know."

Bronx Man Given Year in Hotel Robbery

KINGSTON — Danny Linton, 22, of the Bronx, indicted in the armed robbery of the Stuyvesant Hotel in Kingston, Sept. 28, 1972, was sentenced in Ulster County Court Monday to one year in the Ulster County Jail.

Linton was charged with robbery in the first degree and pleaded guilty to robbery in the third degree to cover the indictment.

Judge Mino, in passing sentence, noted that Linton had no previous felony arrests and had, according to a report of the Probation Department, a good work record.

Linton's assigned counsel, Francis Murray, also pointed out that Lindon, who had been serving time in Ulster County Jail as the result of a City Court sentence, was inadvertently released from the jail while still facing the felony charge.

Murray said Linton came to his office following his release and asked what he should do. Murray advised him to voluntarily return and face the felony charge, which he did.

Linton's sentence is in addition to the five months he has already spent in jail.

First Assistant District Attorney Ellen G. Donovan said today that the district attorney's office had recommended a five-year term.

Hearing Is Adjourned

HULREY — A state Department of Environmental Conservation hearing on the application for a state water supply permit for the Leewood Knolls subdivision off old Route 209 in the Town of Hurley has been adjourned until May 21 at 10 a.m. in the Hurley Library, at the request of the developer.

The hearing had been set for Monday April 23.

According to a DEC spokesman in Albany, the adjournment had been requested by the developer to gather additional data required by the state. The permit is being sought to set up a public water supply system within the development.

The Ulster County Health Department and the State Public Service Commission have filed notice with the DEC that they wish to be heard at the hearing.

Case Adjourned

Thomas Myers, 21, of 18 Wyncoop Place, Kingston, arrested by city detectives Saturday morning and charged with two counts of sexually abusing a seven-year-old girl, was arraigned in City Court today and then remanded to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of bail pending a reappearance Thursday morning.

Nine Cadets Now Involved In Point Case

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Two more cadets have been found in violation of the West Point military academy honor code, raising to nine the number who have been implicated in a continuing cheating investigation, an academy spokesman said today.

The latest decisions of the honor committee were made Monday night according to the spokesman, noting none of the nine are being identified.

Five of the cadets have asked for a board of officers to hear their cases.

All nine have been recommended for dismissal, he said, and, he added, "You may assume that more cadets will appear before the honor committee in this case."

While he said it could be characterized as an "unusual incident" he said that 30-to-60 of the academy's 4,000 cadets leave each year for violation of the honor code.

Youth Injured In Accident

PORT EWEN — Twelve-year-old Harold Sturrock of Port Ewen sustained severe facial lacerations Monday night when the bicycle he was riding crashed through the plate glass window at the Grand Union supermarket in Port Ewen.

Police said the boy apparently lost control of his bicycle while riding in the parking lot in front of the supermarket. The incident occurred at about 5 p.m. Monday.

Sturrock was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service, where he was treated for his injuries.

Meanwhile an 18-year-old Woodstock youth and his 11-year-old sister, sustained facial lacerations in a one-car crash Monday afternoon on the Zena Road in the Town of Woodstock.

Michael Sparer, the driver of the car and 11-year-old Carol Sparer of Brooklyn were treated at Kingston Hospital. Sparer told state police that he was traveling west on Zena Road when he lost control of his vehicle. It ran off the right side of the road and struck a tree.

Arrest Man On Charge of Blasting Caps

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES — Daniel Flaatrty, 25, of Columbus, O., was arrested Monday night by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department on a charge of illegal transportation of explosives after police discovered approximately 800 blasting caps in the back of his car.

The arrest was made by First Sergeant Donald Policastro, who said he stopped the vehicle on Route 9W at about 8:50 p.m. for a routine traffic check. Policastro said several cardboard boxes containing the blasting caps were on the back seat of the car.

Policastro said the charge was issued in accordance with Section 457 of the New York State Labor Law.

Flaatrty was arraigned before Town of Saugerties Justice Michael A. Catalinotto and committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bail pending a court appearance Wednesday.

Policastro said Flaatrty told him he was employed by an Ohio explosives firm, and was transporting the blasting caps from one magazine in the Town of Ulster to his motel in Saugerties.

Police said their investigation is continuing.

Doctor to Quit Hospital Post In New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Joseph T. English, president of the city's Health and Hospitals Corp., says he will quit his $65,000-a-year post by the time Mayor John V. Lindsay leaves office in December.

The resignation, announced Monday, came a day before the corporation's 15-member board of directors was to consider a resolution of no confidence in English and hours after Bronx Borough President Robert Abrams demanded that English resign because of alleged insensitivity to the health needs of the Bronx.

English also has been criticized by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who, in an audit, charged that the corporation paid out $560,000 in unearned wages to workers.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son, Neil R Bechtold, who passed away five years ago today, April 24, 1968.

Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.

MOTHER and DAD

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our brother, Vincent DeCicco, on the Second Anniversary of his death, April 24th.

How many times a day we turn to call to you
Only to remember, what for that moment we did forget.
You see, Vincent, in our hearts and minds
You are with us yet.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son, Vincent DeCicco, on the Second Anniversary of his death, April 24th.

Peaceful be thy sleep dear son,
It is sweet to breathe thy name,
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

MOM and DAD

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Vincent L. DeCicco, who passed away two years ago, April 24.

Dear Husband, out of the sorrow,
Your absence has brough to our heart,
Have grown fragrant flowers of memory,
To bloom all the years we're apart.
Just when your days seemed brightest,
Just when your hopes seemed best,
God called you from amongst us,
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.

BUY IT . . .

It would be so easy . . . just drop it in your purse . . . tempted . . . they'd never miss it. They might not . . . but they might not miss seeing you take it and then it's too late. You may try wrangling out of it, stutter, stammer . . . even cry. But since when do you put something in your purse before you purchase it? Is even the smallest item worth the embarrassment and anguish it would cause your family, let alone the fine and possible jail sentence connected with it?

Go ahead, try it if you want . . . but be prepared to pay the consequences . . . and believe it, they cost more than the item you bagged!

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened mixed today as investors mulled over the possibility of new tax measures and news that food prices continued to soar.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction but advances held a slight edge over declines in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Quotations by Loeb, Rhoades and Co., members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, Kingston Plaza, Kingston, N. Y Joseph Garvila, resident manager. Phone 331-1900.

In Collision Train, Auto

KINGSTON — A slow-moving Penn Central freight train collided with a car at the Route 32 (Boulevard) crossing just north of the Kingston city line at approximately 11:20 a.m. today.

Early reports from the Kingston Police Department indicated there was no injuries sustained in the mishap. Police said the car was "spun around" when struck by the train.

Further details were not available.

Family Food Expenditures Show Record Advance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual amount the average family spends on U.S. farm foods jumped $49 or 3.5 per cent in March to a record $1,458, Agriculture Department reports showed today.

Department statistics also showed the cost of the family market basket—enough food to feed the average American household of 3.2 persons—was up $157 over March, 1972.

Government officials also reported:

—Beef prices last month rose to a record average $1.35 a pound, compared to $1.30 a month earlier. The average price per pound was up 16.8 per cent over a year earlier.

—Retail pork prices in March hit a new record of $1.03 a pound, up 6.1 per cent from a month earlier and 29.7 per cent above a year earlier.

—The farmer's share of the consumer food dollar rose from 43.1 cents in February to 44.5 cents in March, the highest since early 1954.

The cost of the market basket, which is based on U.S. farm foods and which omits items like sea food and imports, was calculated independently by newsmen from government food price indexes.

Retail and price-spread figures reported for several other foods included:

Milk—the retail price for a half gallon was 61.9 cents in March, unchanged from February and 3 per cent above a year earlier.

Tomatoes—retail prices averaged 48.9 cents a pound, down 5.6 per cent from February but 22.9 per cent above a year earlier.

Eggs—retail prices for grade A large eggs averaged 65.4 cents a dozen, down 3.5 per cent from February but 27 per cent above a year earlier.

The Agriculture Department report carried a note stating that several retail price figures had been dropped from the monthly publication "to prevent duplication" since they are published earlier in the month by the Labor Department. Some officials have privately hinted, however, that a number of similar revisions in the Agriculture Department publication amounted to a calculated effort to soften the impact of repeated publicly about rising food prices.

State Survey: Pupil Spending Above Average

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—New York State spends $1,584 for every pupil in its public schools or $550 more than the national average, according to a survey by a taxpayer group.

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey (CPES) said it questioned "whether the quality of education in New York State is that much better than in every other state in proportion to our excess spending."

The CPES said New York State's average per pupil spending had increased by $71 from the previous year, and was $232 per pupil higher than the second ranked spending state, New Jersey.

The taxpayer organization is a supporter of Governor Rockefeller's proposal to establish an inspector general for education to oversee spending and administration in the educational area.

According to the CPES figures, Alabama ranks lowest on the spending per pupil with a $563 cost per year — 168 per cent less than New York State.

Hawaii and Texas spend just over $1,000 per year for each pupil, putting those two states closest to the national average of $1,034 per pupil.

California spends $1,000 per year, $482 per pupil less than New York.

The largest increase in educational spending was recorded by Massachusetts, which increased its average spending by $127 per pupil, from $975 to $1,102.

Mrs. Britting's Statement on Discipline

WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Beverly Britting, candidate for a seat on the Onteora Board of Education, whose views on discipline, expressed at a recent "meet the Candidates" night were not publicized as were those of other candidates, has issued a statement to The Freeman on the topic.

Mrs. Britting, a registered nurse, who has almost completed work on a masters degree in library science, said that while discipline is a very real problem, it is not the only one in the school. "There is also general apathy, poor school spirit, low morale and a lack of purpose and commitment." She said she would like to involve the total community and explore the causes of this and develop workable solutions.

Employed by the Kingston School District as a librarian, Mrs. Britting also spoke extensively on the school board itself saying she wanted it to be a more open, responsive school board, one which would be more willing to interact with the general public.

"In these days of accountability . . . the school board must also be accountable to the public . .. and the taxpayer has the right to know the position of individual board members in order to make an intelligent decision at the polls," she said.

Paper Recycling In Marbletown On April 28

STONE RIDGE

A paper recycling drive will be held at the Marbletown Town Hall, Stone Ridge, Saturday, April 28, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The drive is sponsored by the Environmental Conservation Commission. Magazines can not be accepted for this drive as the clay and colored ink in the slick papers are reportedly clogging the pulp making machinery. It is hoped that a new outlet for this material may be found in the near future.

Residents should tie papers securely with heavy twine or box or bag them in bundles weighing no more than 25 pounds. IBM cards and stationery materials can be accepted and command premium prices when separated and identified.

The Marbletown Town Board has approved a request of the commission for funds to build a shed for paper storage at the town landfill so town residents will not have to store papers between recycling drives. Construction of the facility is expected to begin in the near future.

Police List Complaints In Saugerties

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES

Town of Saugerties police investigated 216 complaints during March, investigated 13 vehicle accidents, issued 13 radar and 66 non-radar traffic tickets, 33 all-night parking ban tickets, and arrested nine persons on complaints, according to the report of Police Chief Robert J. Riley.

Police patrolled 7,695 miles during the month, with full time patrolmen logging 1,240 hours, part time patrolmen 28 hours, and dispatchers 568 hours. The court attendant worked 12 hours and crossing guards at Mt. Marion and Glasco schools logged another 176 hours.

Money paid to the local court on violations during March totaled $1,113.50, Riley reported.

AARP Inducts New Members

NEW PALTZ

Eleven new members were inducted at the April meeting of the Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons.

At the meeting, held at the Inter-County Savings Bank, New Paltz, speakers presented reports and plans were made for coming events.

Edmund Zapp, legislative chairman, spoke on Medicare and Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg, special assignment chairman discussed nursing homes. William Eggers, nominating chairman, presented the slate to be voted on at the next meeting 1 p.m. Monday, May 7.

Plans for a hobby show to be held at the June meeting will be finalized in May. Miss Helen Miller is chairman and may be contacted by those wishing to participate.

The Dutch Treat AARP Family Dinner was held Easter Sunday at Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale..

A successful fund-raising auction was held at the meeting with Miss Mavis Taylor as auctioneer. Members of the committee were Mrs. Gertrude Elliott, Mrs. Teresa Waters and Adolph Schulze.

KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PREPARE WORK FOR DISPLAY AT EXPO.

At Lions Exposition

Student Art Exhibit

KINGSTON — Artwork by students from Kingston Schools Consolidated will provide one of the major displays at this year's Lions Exposition and Home Show, May 1-5, nightly from 7 to 10:30 p.m.

Works of art by Kingston High School students have been featured at previous Expos, but this year marks only the second time that selections from all grades, K-12, will be on display at the New York State Armory, Manor Avenue, Kingston.

Fifteen elementary schools, three junior high schools, and the high school will be represented. Numerous works, both two dimensional and three dimensional, will be exhibited. Featured will be drawings, paintings, wood cuts, costume design, advertising art and craft work.

Art is taught at all levels in the school system, according to Mrs. Althea Odell, director of art for Kingston Schools Consolidated, who adds that interest in art has increased in recent years.

Students very often go on to study art in institutions of higher learning, according to Mrs. Odell. And many from the Kingston school system have won honors and prizes for their work.

The art work will be on display in the stage area of the New York State Armory.

★ ★ ★ ★ Park Motif

KINGSTON — Visitors to the Kingston Lions "Spring Festival" will find both spring and summer indoors at the New York State Armory nightly from 7 to 10:30 p.m. May 1-5. The warmer seasons will come in the form of a simulated park with a swimming pool in which there will be nightly demonstrations by the YMCA.

The pool for the special attraction at Expo comes compliments of Sear's, and the park motif is a creation of Kingston Garden Center.

The nightly demonstrations by the YMCA will include skin diving, life saving, and water ballet.

Tickets for Expo are available from any Kingston Lion, and are 50 cents advance, or 75 cents at the gate.

Free Health Screening, Bus for Senior Citizens

KINGSTON — A free health screening clinic for senior citizens will be at the New York State Armory, Wednesday afternoon, May 2, compliments of the Kingston Lions Club, which is holding its 26th annual Exposition May 1-5 at the Armory on Manor Avenue.

Bus service for the senior citizens will be available at a nominal (25 cents round trip) fee, beginning at 1:30 p.m. The bus route will begin at Colonial Gardens, and with approximately five minute intervals between stops, will proceed to Flatbush Avenue and East Chester Street, to East Chester Street and Hasbrouck Avenue, to Hasbrouck Avenue and Delaware Avenue, to the White Eagle Hall on Delaware Avenue, to Delaware Avenue and North Street, to the Strand across from the Rondout Recreation Area, to Rondout Gardens at Broadway and Delaware Avenue, to the Midtown bus terminal, to Albany Avenue and Broadway, to Wiltwyck Gardens, and then to the New York State Armory.

The free clinic will close at 4:30 p.m.

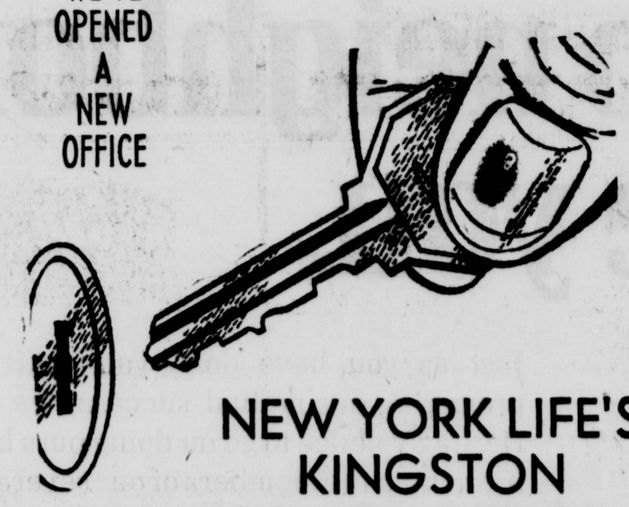

Tests at the clinic will include those for glaucoma, hypertension, emphysema, diabetes, and a chest X-ray, as well as consultation with a health department nurse.

The health screening clinic will also be at Expo itself Wednesday and Thursday nights. The Lions Expo will be open from 7 to 10:30 p.m. nightly for the five days. Tickets are 50 cents if purchased in advance, or 75 cents at the door.

All proceeds from Expo are used for projects in the Ulster County area.

Farm Boss Seethes Over Paris Reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, an advocate of free world trade for farm products, reportedly is seething over the cold shoulder his ideas drew during talks two weeks ago in Paris.

The meeting involved top agriculture officials of countries belonging to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, including the Common Market nations.

Butz, according to sources in the Agriculture Department, was not keen on attending the meeting in the first place. The European Community (Common Market nations) particularly, has not demonstrated in the past much enthusiasm for easing back on its protective farm policies, subsidies and tariffs.

Meantime, the Nixon administration has virtually eliminated production controls for key crops this year, opened the door to foreign meat and has eliminated U.S. export subsidies.

In the view of Butz, these actions show the United States is sincere about freeing world agricultural trade. According to Butz, other countries could do likewise.

"Why should any protective system be sacred in a world that is moving closer together?" Butz said in Paris. "Why should we regard our Section 22 controls (on farm imports) as inviolate? Why should the European Community insist on sanctity for its system of variable import levies?"

The reaction in Paris ranged from indifference to outrage, according to the USDA sources. One official quoted Butz as saying after he meeting: "They didn't listen, they didn't want to listen."

Talks with U.S. trading partners are picking up steam and will bloom fully next fall when formal sessions are held under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

Butz and other administration officials long ago pinned hopes for long-range U.S. farm policy on prospects for larger exports. By selling more wheat, corn, soybeans and other crops abroad, they believe farmers can put land back to work and gradually move away from costly federal subsidies and controls.

Farm exports currently are at record levels, some $11.1 billion for the year ending June 30 — a $3 billion boost from 1971-72. But Butz and others believe that the future must involve a lowering or elimination of trade barriers multilaterally if American farmers expect to gain further in world commerce.

The Agriculture Department is making available to farm groups, civic organizations and other interested parties a new color photo slide series showing how farmers have performed in producing the nation's food and fiber.

The series is entitled "The Peaceful Revolution" and tells what USDA calls "a revolution that has freed an entire nation from the soil to make this country the most literate, the most affluent, and the best fed" in the world.

Officials said the slide set of some 195 frames, including a taped soundtrack, is available for $50 from the Office of Communication, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is expected to issue this week an updated "market basket" report on food prices for March showing where consumer food dollars went.

The report will include farm and middleman shares of what supermarket shoppers spend for selected items such as beef and pork.

Newport Closing ..Sense of Danger

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — A banker expresses optimism for the future. But grocers, gas station owners, shopkeepers and others who relied on Navy business are gloomily awaiting the worst.

Newport, the fabled playground of millionaires and socialites, has been rocked by a Pentagon order that will wipe out nearly 14,000 military and civilian jobs at the Newport Naval Base.

Though other military installations in the area will remain in use, the transfer south of men and ships from the Newport base will mean the loss of an annual payroll of $116 million. That is half the total wages of Newport and the two other communities on the 44-square-mile island, Middletown and Portsmouth.

As the news sinks in about the total shutdown of the base by June 30, 1974, a sense of danger is replacing the initial wave of disbelief.

"I'm so mad," says Mrs. Morton Socks, whose husband says he will have to close one of his two men's shops that cater to the military. "There is no cut in defense spending, they're just shifting everything elsewhere."

Harold and Peter Petropoulos, owners of a camera store, say they expected cutbacks as the war wound down "but they hit us with a home run rather than a double. This is the Pearl Harbor of Newport."

The sales manager of a large real estate firm says that, since the cutback announcement a week ago today, "it's just a story of one cancellation after another. The market has gone absolutely stone deaf. There's no phone calls for sales."

In nearby Middletown — where a string of gas stations, car washes, hamburger joints and two shopping centers have grown up outside the Navy's gates — a clerk for a dry cleaner says, "We're going to suffer. We probably won't be here next year."

The future looks equally bleak to furniture store owners and used-car dealers, who do up to 80 per cent of their business with the Navy.

A developer already has cancelled plans to build a new $10 million shopping center near one of the base's gates.

William A. Perry, president of the Newport National Bank, says marginal businesses probably will go under and Newport will become a bedroom community to industrial areas.

"It's going to depress it for a while, but it's going to bounce back," he says emphatically. "If you have a labor force available, industry will come in."

Local Junior League Represented at Conferences

CONFERENCE DELEGATES discuss programs covered at a recent Junior League meeting. Delegates from the Kingston Junior League were (L-R) Mrs. Paul H. Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Traficanti Jr., and Mrs. Robert Diamond. A fourth delegate was Mrs. William Davenport. Another League project was a two-day seminar in Albany where Social Welfare was the topic. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Mrs. Paul H. Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Traficanti Jr., Mrs. Robert Diamond and Mrs. William Davenport were delegates from the Junior League of Kingston to two recent conferences.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Traficanti represented the Kingston League at a conference in Hartford, Conn., which incuded delegates from 40 Leagues. Representation covered New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Canada. The conference was directed by Organizational Renewal Associates, a management consultant firm specializing in career and organization development. This group seeks to privide organizational development support for specialists in large systems and external consultant services for smaller operations.

The purpose of the seminar was threefold: first, to help delegates find their own potential: second, to find the overall potential of the organization: and third, how to use this talent within the group and in the community.

Mrs. Diamond, immediate past president of the Junior League of Kingson, and Mrs. Davenport attended a meeting of the 22 Junior Leagues in New York State on the topic of Public Affairs. Hosted by the Junior League of Albany, N.Y., Inc., the two day seminar included a speech by Environmental Commissioner Henry Diamond and attendance at the Legislative Forum where Social Welfare was the topic.

Purpose of the meeting was to establish guidelines for the participation in public affairs on a statewide basis and to form a State Public Affairs Committee. The committee will function to facilitate communication in the area of public affairs among New York State Leagues and to provide Leagues with current information about legislation.

The Junior League of Kingston, N.Y., Inc. has participated in public affairs activity through member education, study and membership in the Legislative Forum. Delegates from the Kingston League attend each Tuesday morning session of Forum during the legislative season and report to the membership on the program and pending legislation.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH KLONOWSKI SR. of 64 First Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a surprise party given by their sons, Joseph and Thomas, relatives, and Patrice Sangaline of Kingston. Married April 18, 1948 in Immaculate Conception Church by the late Rev. Msgr. Joseph Sieczek, their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaffner who were present at the party. Mrs. Klonowski is employed at Barclay Knitwear in Port Ewen. Her husband works at Western Printing in Poughkeepsie. Many relatives and friends attended the gala. (Powell photo)

Boycott Creates New Majority: Consumer

There is now a new majority commonly known as the consumer. This is one favorable result of the much publicized meat boycott, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. The boycott may not have accomplished what it intended to, in the way it intended to. However, it did create a closer communication between retailers and consumers. Indications are that retail stores are now putting a greater effort into trying to accomodate consumers pricewise.

This is evident from the current advertised sales items, some of which shave the margin of retail profit fairly close. If this trend continues, the retailers will be doing their part, the rest is up to consumers by using judgement in their buying.

As far as other facets of the meat marketing process, there is little that can be done at this time, principally because of the lack of supply.

Beef sales this week will feature chuck roast from 69 cents to $1.05 depending on cut and trim, boneless shoulder roast from $1.29 to $1.39, rib roast $1.30 to $1.40, boneless rump roast $1.45 to $1.55, sirloin tip roast $1.39 to $1.65, arm pot roast $1.15 to $1.25. VFW Junior Unit Convention Slated

Dale Edge, State of New York Junior Unit President of the Department of New York Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U.S., will conduct the ninth annual Jr. Unit Convention April 27-29 at VFW Post No. 4915, Herkimer. Jr. Units throughout the state will be represented.

Presently, there are 38 Jr. Units sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW. Several meetings to plan the convention were held under the direction of Mrs. Andrew Edge, Department Jr. Unit chairman, and Mrs. Anna E. Coons, Department president of the Ladies Auxiliary. Many trophies and citations will be awarded to the Units for outstanding activitties throughout the year in such endeavors as Community Service, Americanism, Cancer, Loyalty Day, Citizenship, Membership, Youth Activities, Hospital and Buddy Poppies. Unit member and Unit chairman of the Year will also be selected and many special awards will be presented. Department Commander of the VFW, Earl Stock, will be present at the opeing, along with Department President Anna E. Coons.

On Saturday, a testimonial dinner will be given in honor of State Jr. Unit President Dale Edge and her state officers. Debra Schrader, a Unit member of Jr. Unit No. 1386, Kingston, is state secretary.

Guest speaker will be Gilbert E. Gray of Kingston, National Commandant of the Marine Corps League, and mistress of ceremony will be Florence Taylor, National Council member and past department president of the Ladies Auxiliary from Binghamton.

Many national, department, district and county officers will be in attendance, as well as local VFW officers including Albert DeLuca, commander of Joyce-Schirick Post No. 1386; Ladies Auxiliary President Margaret Loeffler; and Jr. Unit chairman Virginia DeLuca; several local Jr. Unit members; Jr. Unit President Colleen Genther, friends and relatives of the guest of honor.

Miss Edge, 17, a senior at Kingston High School, is a member of the National Honor Society, Spanish Honor Society and Student Council. She is a homeroom representative and was a member of the Math Club in her freshman year. She has been accepted at Hudson Valley Community College in Troy where she will major in Radiologic Technology Program.

A member in her local Jr. Unit since it was organized in 1964, she started with the Office of Guard to the Unit President in 1968-69. She served as membership chairman, patriotic instructor, and guard to her present title as president.

Active in many community service projects, both in Unit and hospital work, she was a member of the Constellation of Junior Stars; candy striper; nursery aide in Rehabilitiation Center, participated in parades and flag presentations and memorial services in schools and church. She solicited for the March of Dimes, Leukemia Foundation, sold poppies, and served as Poppy Queen in 1965. She was selected "Unit Member of the Year" in 1969 at Endicott, and also named "National Unit Member of the Year. A testimonial dinner was given for her by the local Ladies Auxiliary and Jr. Unit.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Edge of 32 Webster Street, Kingston, she is a member of Fair Street Reformed Church, and a charter member of the Jr. Unit for nine years. Her father is a past Commander of Joyce-Schirick Post, and her mother is a past Auxiliary president and Jr. Unit chairman for eight years. She has a sister, Mrs. James Jaffer, a past Jr. Unit president, and a brother Wayne.

Doing the Right Thing

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Margo Levin of Cornwells Heights, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Post:

I was recently married and very eager to change my last name. When I tried to change my name on various charge accounts, I was given nothing but arguments. I just wanted my LAST name changed, and I did not want my account to go under my husband's name or to be transferred to him. I wanted to be responsible for my own bills.

After many hours of aggravation and trying to explain that I had already established credit and I was NOT going to give it up and put it in my husband's name (who has enough of his own credit), I managed to win in most cases.

My questions is this: In this era of the women's liberation movement, is it STILL only proper to use MRS. MARGO LEVIN (or one's first name) if one is widowed, divorced or separated? If so, I think it's time for a change.

MARGO LEVIN

Dear Mrs. Levin:

Charge accounts are generally made out in a husband's name because most stores and credit companies still require that the man's credit rating be approved before the account can be opened. When both husband and wife intend to use the account, and when the husband pays all the bills, I see no objection to the old system. But today, as you suggest, it is ridiculous and insulting to a wife who is capable of paying her own accounts and wishes to keep them separate from those of her husband. Thanks to Women's Lib, stores and credit companies are slowly beginning to accept a woman's signature on her own name, and I commend you for insisting on your right to have your accounts in whatever name you wish — and better yet for "winning in most cases."

P.S. Along the same line, I know from personal experience that the same change is taking place in regard to real estate. For years a husband's signature was necessary on a lease, no matter whose name the property was to be in, or who was the breadwinner. Today, I'm happy to say, some companies, at least, will accept the wife's signature as sufficient.

Legal Secretaries Elect Officers

Karen Bitonte was elected president of Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association at the group's monthly dinner meeting April 18 at Governor Clinton Hotel. Serving with her will be Uldine Rauner, vice president; Annamary Grote, recording secretary; Sandra DiStasi, corresponding secretary; E. Margaret Garvilla, treasurer; and Patricia Vernooy, governor.

Beatrice Zebree and Carmella Cruisce, co-chairman, announced that the sixth annual Installation dinner will take place Wednesday, May 16, at Governor Clinton Hotel. Cocktail hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with dinner slated for 7:30.

In the absence of Karen Bitonte, Uldine Raunder presided at the business meeting. Gayla DiFabio of Highland was accepted as a new member.

Michelle Schwerdtfeger, co-chairman of the Education Program, reported that 5 members are registered in the program which takes place on Monday evenings. On April 30, the legal research class will be held in the Supreme Court Library.

Rosalie McDowell, chairman of the "Day in Court" and bar liaison, announced the Day in Court program is scheduled for Wednesday, May 9, at 8 p.m. in the Court House. Invitations will be extended to the Bar Secretaries to attend this interesting program.

Maria Fabiano, ways and means committee, announced that a flea market and bake sale will be held in June in Saugerties. Details will be announced.

Vera Elliott, committee for theatre trips, reported that 38 members and friends enjoyed a bus trip to New York on April 7.

NEW OFFICERS of Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association were named recently. They include (L-R) Uldine Rauner, vice president; Annamary Grote, recording secretary; Sandra DiStasi, corresponding secretary; and Patricia Vernooy, governor. Heading the group for 1973 will be Karen Bitonte, president. Margaret Garvilla is serving as treasurer. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Handicapped Can Be First-Class Citizens

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I cringed when I read the letter from a man who was looking for a nice lady with some sort of physical handicap. He should look for a nice psychiatrist (handicapped or otherwise) to help him get over the idea that he is superior to one who is physically handicapped. The poor man is obviously handicapped himself in that he is disturbed.

However sad, there are more people than most realize who share this man's sick point of view. It is this attitude which has made second-class citizens of physically handicapped people.

I know a lovely, bright young woman who has teaching credentials, but because she is blind she cannot get a teaching position. The reason is simple. An employer will not hire a handicapped person if he can get one who is "normal."

ANOTHER 2D CLASS CITIZEN

DEAR CITIZEN: Not ALL employers discriminate against the handicapped. Some (God bless 'em) give them preference. And one of the reasons I am such a rootin' tootin' booster of The Goodwill Industries is because they exist in order to give the physically handicapped an opportunity to be self-supporting, self-respecting first-class citizens.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: May I reply to "Dot in Chicago," the waitress who wondered why customers take their wraps to their tables instead of checking them in the checkroom?

My mink coat mysteriously disappeared from a restaurant checkroom. Our insurance did not cover theft of items in restaurants or theaters. The restaurant's insurance did not cover customers' belongings. The restaurant management refused to reimburse me on the grounds that the checkroom girl didn't remeber me or my coat in spite of the fact that I had a claim check! My loss: $1,995.

Also, during a period of two and one-half years, five of my husband's hats disappeared from restaurant hat racks, with "not responble for loss of personal property" signs. His loss: $185.

Try using these so-called "free" checkrooms. Any tip less than four bits results in a scream of "CHEAP-SKATE!"

RLC

DEAR RLC: Offhand, I'd say you didn't have a very good insurance policy. And if you accepted these losses under the circumstances you describe without consulting a lawyer, you are naive.

"C"-ing is Believing
In Buying a Diamond—So Let the "4Cs" be Your Guide
COLOR is very important. The standard is clear white, like a drop of water. The crystal-clear absence of any color in the interior of a diamond is usually the finest quality. As tinges of yellow deepen in body color, however, the value decreases.
CLARITY also helps to determine value. Few diamonds are flawless — but, if tiny feathers or carbon spots can only be seen under a strong magnifying glass, don't worry about it. Buy as perfect a stone as you can afford and be happy with it.
CUTTING contributes more to the beauty of a diamond than anything else. A well-cut diamond is at its brilliant best when every facet has been placed on the stone at the correct angle and in correct proportions. Poorly cut diamonds lack sparkle.
CARAT is the unit of weight of a diamond. In ancient times, the seeds of the carob tree were used to balance the gem scales. Size alone, however, does not indicate value since it is color, clarity and cutting combined that determine the per carat price.

Healthful, Low-Calorie Salads...With Lively Flavors

If you're looking for something quick, light and low in calories for dinner — think salads. You'll appreciate their fresh, cool flavors, especially during the summer.

Chicken Salad Nicoise makes an excellent dinner choice. It's a substantial mixture of cut-up chicken, green beans and tomato wedges topped with an exuberantly flavored dressing. French in origin, the dressing is an oil and vinegar blend that is stretched with an egg, milk, water and the flavors of dill weed, garlic and Tobasco pepper sauce. These added ingredients also stretch the calories, giving you less in each serving. Tabasco goes well with many low-calorie foods, adding a lively taste to their sometimes bland flavors.

For your green salads, you'll want to try a low-calorie Cucumber Dressing. It's a light, velvety mixture that includes sour cream with chopped cucumber, scallions, parsley, garlic and Tabasco pepper sauce. The full flavor of this Cucumber Dressing hides the fact that it contains only 28 calories per tablespoon.

Chicken Salad Nicoise

Dressing:

One-quarter cup salad oil
One egg
Two tablespoons vinegar
Three-quarters teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon dried dill weed
One clove garlic
One-quarter to one-half teaspoon Tabasco peper sauce
Two tablespoons milk
Two tablespoons water

Place all ingredients in electric blender container. Process at high speed for 30 seconds. Or beat with rotary beater until well mixed.

Salad:

Two and one-half cups cut-up cooked chicken breast
One package (10 ounces) cut green beans, cooked, drained, chilled
One large tomato, cut in 12 wedges
Salad greens.

In large bowl combine chicken and green beans. Add dressing, mix well and chill for 30 minutes before serving. Arrange on salad greens with tomato wedges.

YIELD: Four to 6 servings; 275 calories for each of 4 servings, 185 calories for each of 6 servings.

Cucumber Dressing

One medium cucumber, pared, seeded, chopped
One-quarter teaspoon salt
One tablespoon sliced scallions
One cup sour cream
One-quarter cup mayonnaise
One tablespoon vinegar
Two tablespoons chopped parsley
One clove garlic, crushed
One teaspoon anchovy paste
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
One-quarter teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

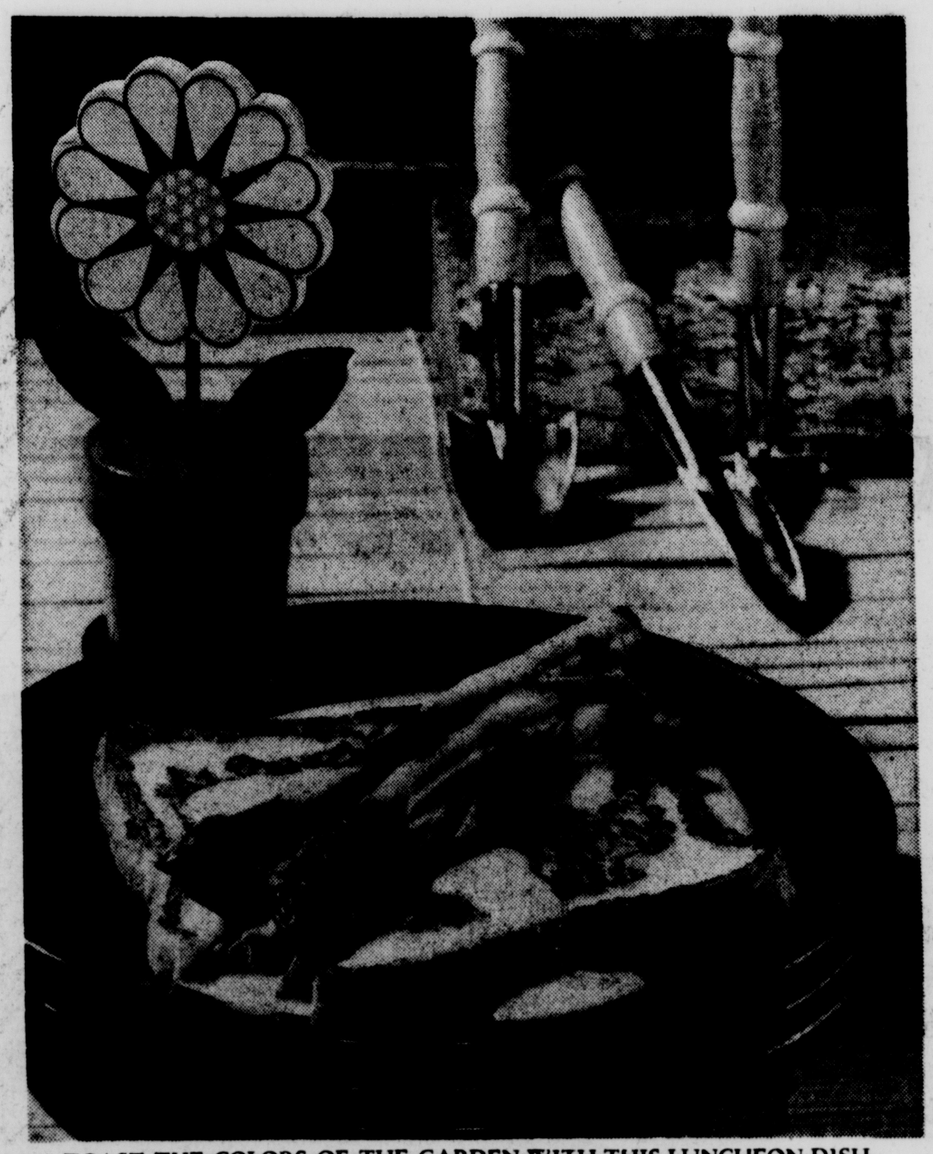

In a small bowl sprinkle cucumber with salt and let stand for 10 minutes. Drain off excess liquid. Add all remaining ingredients and stir to mix well. Cover and chill for at least one hour before serving.

YIELD: two cups; 28 calories per tablespoon.

CHICKEN SALAD NICOISE

Gardening Raises Appetites, Too

TOAST THE COLORS OF THE GARDEN WITH THIS LUNCHEON DISH.

Gardeners anticiapte the greening of spring, and later, summer's gold. Show your true gardener's colors, green and gold, in this luncheon dish, after a busy morning tending the garden.

This Green and Gold Asparagus Toast is sure to cultivate praise. It won't take much time away from the garden chores as it's made with convient frozen French toast. If your own asparagus isn't ready to cut, call on the produce section of the supermarket or the freezer for the handy frozen kind.

The "gold" in this recipe is the creamy cheese topper. It's easily made, but does require watching. Heat the butter until just melted and bubbly (heating too long will turn it brown). Then sprinkle in the flour and salt, stirring constantly to make a smooth mixture. More stirring is needed when the milk and cheese are added. A wooden spoon is best for recipes such as this one that need lots of stirring as it won't burn your hand.

Gardening, like all outdoor activity, is well known for producing hearty appetites. Satisfy them with this tasty Green and gold Asparagus Toast.

Green and Gold Asparagus Toast

Makes 6 servings

Two tablespoons butter or margarine
Two tablespoons all-purpose flour
One-quarter teaspoon salt
One cup milk
One 5-oz. jar pasteurized process American cheese spread, sharp
One 10-oz. pkg. frozen asparagus spears or 1 lb. fresh asparagus
One 9-oz. pkg. frozen French toast.

Melt butter in medium-sized saucepan. Blend in flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Add cheese, stirring constantly until cheese is melted and sauce is thickened. Keep warm until ready to serve. Meanwhile, prepare cookinng directions. Also prepare French toast according to package directions. Allow 1 slice of toast per serving. Top each serving with hot asparagus spears and warm cheese sauce.

BROCCOLI

If you're tired of frozen peas, green beans and corn, you might try broccoli. This vegetable is full of flavor and vitamins A and C, and is low in calories, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist. (A 10-oz. frozen package of chopped broccoli contains 65 calories.)

Broccoli can be prepared in a number of ways. For a quick supper, combine any style of frozen broccoli with canned tuna and mushroom soup. Top with potato chip crumps and bake for half an hour at 350 degrees and you have a new twist to tunafish casserole.

Tart Sauce for Broccoli

One-half teaspoon salt
One and one-half teaspoons sugar
One-half teaspoon paprika
Two tablespoons lemon juice
Two tablespoons butter or margarine
One and one-half teaspoons prepared horseradish

Blend all ingredients together and pour over cooked broccoli.

Turkey and Broccoli Amandine

Four oz. (2 c.) medium noodles
One package (10 oz.) frozen broccoli, cooked
Two tablespoons butter or margarine
Two tablespoons flour
One cup each of undiluted evaporated milk and turkey or chicken broth
One cup diced Cheddar cheese
One teaspoon Worcestershire
One-quarter teaspoon pepper
Two cups diced cooked turkey
Salt
One-quarter cup toasted slivered blanched almonds

Cook and drain noodles; put in shallow baking dish. Cut broccoli into 1-inch pieces, and reserve blossoms. Arrange stems on noodles. Make a sauce with the butter, flour, and liquids. Add cheese, Worcestershire and pepper; stir until cheese is melted. Add turkey and salt to taste; pour over ingredients in dish. Arrange broccoli blossoms on top, and sprinkle with almonds.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 4. Good with tomato juice, peas, and fudge cake.

ERNEST C. MYER

Dinner to Honor Hurley Principal

HURLEY

Ernest C. Myer, retiring principal of the Hurley Elementary School, will be honored by Kingston City Schools Consolidated at a dinner June 1 at the Holiday Inn.

Myer, who has had a long and distinguished career in the field of education, was graduated from Kingston High School in 1922, and received his teacher certification from the State Teachers College at New Paltz, Albany State Teachers College and New York University.

His initial assignment was at the Pacama School, now part of the Onteora School District. He later taught at the Binnewater School on Lucas Avenue Extension. After service there he proceeded to the West Hurley Elementary School, and has served in that capacity since then.

Myer has devoted many years not only to education, but also in the field of community service. In the past he has served as chairman of the Hurley Polio Campaign, president of the Mens' Club of the Hurley Reformed Church, clerk of the church consistory, president of the Hurley Teachers Association, president of the Hurley Lions Club, zone chairman of the District 20-0 Lions Club, and chairman for the New York State Youth Program in the Town of Hurley.

In 1963, he was the recipient of the Lions Club award as Friend-Teacher and Fellow Lion.

Myer is married to the former Mabel I. Elmendorf. They have two children, Ernest Myer Jr. and Carolyn Cranfield, as well as four grandchildren.

Two Paltz Educators Chosen

NEW PALTZ

Two faculty members at the State University College at New Paltz, have been chosen Outstanding Educators of America for 1973. They are Dr. George Heyl, professor of geology and astronomy, and Dr. Victor Landau, professor of music.

Outstanding Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for exceptional service, achievements and leadership in the field of education. The program features the educators in an annual national awards volume, "Outstanding Educator of America."

Nominations for the program are made by officials of colleges and universities, including presidents, deans and department heads. The criteria they consider include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

Dr. Landua is a pianist, composer, conductor and critic as well as an educator. Born in Brooklyn, he did his undergraduate work at City College of New York and earned the master's and doctor's degrees at New York University. He has been a member of the faculty at New Paltz since 1950.

He has published studies of the musical theories of the late composer Paul Hindemith and numerous articles and reviews for magazines and newspapers. His compositions have been performed on major television and radio networks and by numerous performing groups.

Dr. Heyl, a native of Allentown, Pa., holds a B.Sc. degree from Pennsylvania State University and the M.A. and Ph.D. from Princeton University. A veteran of 13 years of teaching at the college, he has seen wide service in industry and government, for which he still performs consulting services. He has also taught at Rutgers University.

He has published numerous articles in scientific journals and is affiliated with the Geological Society of America and some 15 other learned societies, three of these in foreign countries. His specialties include mineral and petroleum deposits, stratigraphic and structural geological problems, and geothermal gradients and related phenomena.

Retired Profs Designated

NEW PALTZ

Two recently retired members of the faculty at the State University College at New Paltz have been designated faculty emeriti by the university's Board of Trustees.

They are Dr. Richard F. Klix, former chairman of the Graduate Division and professor of educational administration and supervision, and Edith Holt, former associate professor of art.

Dr. Klix, who joined the college faculty in 1949 and served for 23 years, was chairman of the graduate faculty, director of the summer Intensive Teacher Training Program, and the professor in charge of student teaching. He has also been executive secretary of the Mid-Hudson School Study Council.

Professor Holt received the B.S. degree from Syracuse and joined the faculty as a teacher of introductory art courses in 1928, when the institution was known as the New Paltz Normal School. She was active in both campus and community affairs during her 44 years on the faculty.

Special Day Set At YMCA Camp

KINGSTON

The tenth annual Special Day at the YMCA Day Camp for boys and girls 6 through 14 years old will be held Saturday, April 28. This special day is an opportunity for prospective and old campers to spend a spring day at the "Y" Camp in Shokan. Buses will leave the YMCA parking lot at 9 a.m. and return about 4 p.m. Each youngster needs a bag lunch. Milk will be served to all who attend. Parents need to call the YMCA by 4 p.m. Friday, Ajril 27, to make a reservation so adequate buses may be secured. No youngster can be accepted without a prior reservation.

Activities and groups will be assigned to members of the Counselor Training Class under the supervision of Program Director, John J. Bailey and returning experienced staff members.

The program for youngsters attending will include a tour of camp, a brook hike, a hike to Look-Out-Rock, archery, BB gun instruction, softball, volleyball and fishing. The younger children will have special games, singing and crafts. After lunch the Trading Post will be open for limited purchases of soda and candy, followed by story time in the council ring. About 1:30 Landfall Trout Farms will bring the trout for our camp stocking program. The youngsters will have the chance to see some nice big rainbow trout enter their new home. The camp will furnish fishing rods and bait so there is no need for youngsters to bring their own.

Members of the recently completed Counselor Training Class who will be giving group leadership for the Special Day are: Susan Barkin, James Brown, Sharon Duffy, Diane Gordon, Christopher Hansen, Barbara Henry, James Kocsis, Patricia Leyes, Suzanne Lumish, and Patricia Read.

The regular camp season opens June 25 for four two-week periods of camping, and applications are now being accepted.

Meeting Set In Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

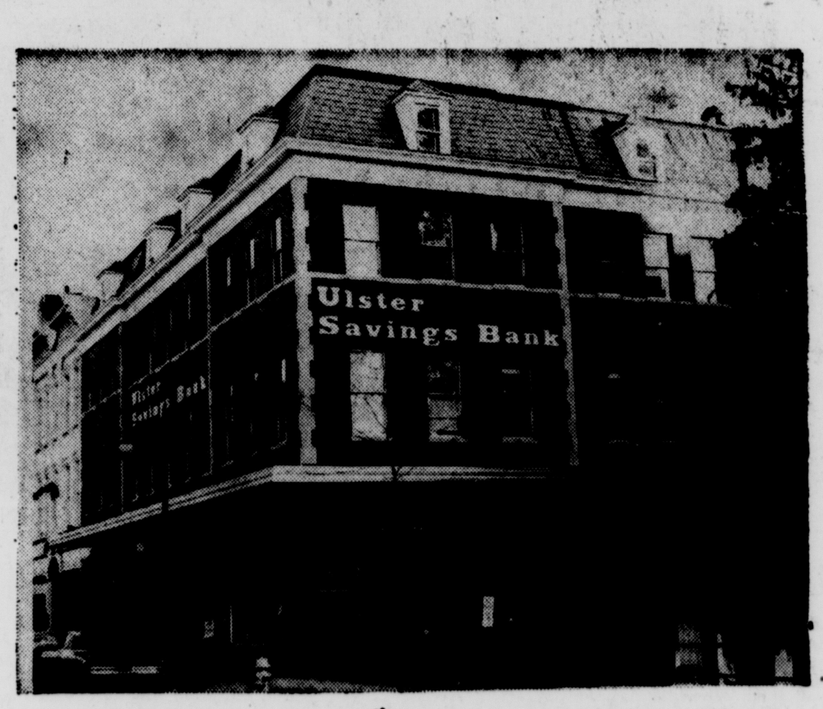

The Ellenville Community Hospital annual meeting will be held on Thursday, April 26, at 8 p.m. in the hosptial Meeting Room.

The agenda will include reports by the hospital officers and the election of six directors to serve for three years.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N.Y., TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 24, 1973 SEVENTEEN

State School Commissioner Rules Against Rondout Board

ALBANY — State Commissioner of Education Ewald B. Nyquist has found against the Rondout Valley Board of Education in an appeal brought to his office by school board members Morris Felsen and Eleanor Black over the school board-authorized lease-purchase of a bookkeeping computer from the Burroughs Corp.

The decision, dated April 18 and made public over the weekend, stayed the school board from implementing resolutions adopted June 20 and July 21, 1972, concerning the acquiring of the machine.

Nyquist based his decision on three grounds. He found the school board wanted to purchase the equipment without the $20,000 the purchase would have required being in the budget; the school board had advertised for the purchase of the equipment, but instead entered into a lease-purchase agreement; and there are no provisions for lease-purchase agreements in such cases by school boards.

Nyquist's office had previously issued orders staying, until a Department of Education decision was reached, the school board from taking further action in the matter.

School Board President Wayne Kelder said Mondy that he had not yet seen Nyquist's decision, but considered the matter "water over the dam." He said he believed the school board had lost the decision because it had failed to observe certain "technicalities."

Felsen, after consultation with Mrs. Black, issued a statement on the Nyquist decision Monday. Felsen said, "Both Mrs. Black and I are gratified that the commissioner rendered a decision in our favor. It is most unfortunate that only one other board member, Mrs. William Coler, voted against the purchase of the accounting machine, in spite of our advising the board that the purchase was improper. We hope that in the future the superintendent and the board will conform more closely to the rules."

According to Kelder, there was no money in the budget for the computer at the time the board moved to purchase it because the board wanted to get one more year out of a "very old" machine the district was using. He said the machine did not last the year, but instead broke down in the summer after the budget was adopted.

He said some repairs had been made on the machine, but that district accounting had to be done in longhand while the machine was broken, and that some longhand accounting was still being done because the machine was unreliable for certain operations even after the repair job.

Kelder said there was money in the proposed 1973-74 budget for the purchase of the new machine.

In addition to stopping the school board from acquiring the Burroughs machine, Felsen and Mrs. Black sought costs and attorney's fees. Nyquist, in his decision, denied the costs and fees, saying the commissioner's office had never granted them before and had no reason to depart from past practice in this case.

Jury Selection Underway

KINGSTON — The picking of a jury began in Ulster County Court Monday in the trial of Derek Lane Humble who was allegedly involved in the possession of "a staggering cache" of marijuana last summer when a fire in Zena led police to discover about 1,000 pounds of the drug in a nearby camper truck.

Humble, 22, of Chestnut Hill Road, Woodstock, was subsequently indicted on charges of alleged criminal possession of a dangerous drug (canabis) and entered a plea of innocent Sept. 13, 1972.

The selection of the jury began in the afternoon with Assistant District Attorney James Melbert representing The People and Robert Ricken counsel for Humble.

The circumstances leading up to the seizure and the arrest of Humble July 1 of last year began with the report of a fire at Humble's residence at 11:35 a.m. Following the dousing of the fire which destroyed half the building, Fire Chief Duncan Wilson contacted Town of Woodstock Police Chief William A. Waterous to report what State Police later termed as "suspicious vegetable matter" on the floor of the building.

Subsequently Humble was arrested on the drug charge and as a result of what had been seen in the house, a search warrant was issued.

A search of a camper pickup truck parked near the dwelling resulted in the discovery and seizure of what State Police officials said were "large cardboard boxes packed to the brim with packaged marijuana."

Marijuana taken from the floor of the house reportedly filled two 20-gallon barrels.

Denny McLain's Latest Stop — Des Moines, Iowa

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Denny McLain has been at the top. Denny McLain has been at the bottom. Denny McLain is now in Des Moines, Iowa.

McLain observed batting practice at Sec Taylor Stadium in Des Moines Monday night, only hours after becoming the newest member of the Iowa Oaks of the American Association.

"I want to play in the major leagues again—that was my number one reason for joining the Oaks," said McLain when contacted just before the Oaks' game against the Denver Bears. "I'm 29 and I'll be 30 next March. You pass this way only once. I've been involved with some goofy situations and I've had my problems.

"But show me a guy in any profession, digging ditches or anything who hasn't had problems. Look at the problems Joe Namath has had. They were blown up only because Namath was throwing touchdown passes and winning the Super Bowl.

"Look at that story of the hockey player who supposedly was involved with gamblers. He's not well known now so the story has quickly died. But you can bet if it was Bobby Hull that story would still be around."

McLain and trouble are no strangers.

Less than five years ago, McLain was the toast of the baseball world. As a member of the Detroit Tigers, he was the first pitcher in 34 years to win 30 or more games in one season when he posted a 31-6 mark in 1968 and he followed up that performance with a 24-9 record in 1969. He was named the Cy Young Award winner for his 31 victory performance and shared the award the following season with Mike Cuellar of the Baltimore Orioles.

Then, the bottom fell out for Denny McLain.

Suspended twice during the 1970 season, once for his association with gamblers and the second time for carrying a gun, McLain has seen service with five teams in the last three seasons, including Birmingham of the Southern League last year. He was purchased by Atlanta from Birmingham last June but was released by the Braves during spring training last month.

"All winter the Braves told me I would get a chance," said McLain. Then I wound up pitching six innings in 3 ½ weeks. There's not that much talent on the Braves. I can pitch with most of them right now. I could have made the team.

"My arm is fine. It's the first spring training in 11 years that I haven't had any pain. I've wondered how much I have to show to get back in the majors. Do I have to show I can win 31 games again or that I can just get the batters out consistently?"

McLain was signed by Ray Johnston, the owner of the Oaks, whom McLain says has promised to get him another shot in the majors. Johnston emphasized McLains' contract is only with Iowa and has no connection with the Oaks' parent major league team, the Chicago White Sox.

"I don't care about all that jazz about McLain," said Johnston, referring to McLain's "bad-boy" history. "It's a good deal for him and for us. I have the right to own three player contracts without White Sox approval. Denny can go to any one of the 24 major league teams but the White Sox, of course, have first refusal. Johnny Sain is pitching coach the White Sox and he thinks the world of McLain as a competitor."

"Johnston has assured me he'll try and get me back in the majors," McLain added. "Of course, I would prefer going back with the Chicago White Sox. I started in their organization and Sain is there. I've talked with them and I know they're interested."

What else?

McLain is scheduled to join the Oaks next Monday when the club is in Oklahoma City. He and Johnston agree McLain will pitch batting practice and then make one or two relief appearances before starting a game. Johnston admitted McLain's first start will come in a game played in Des Moines.

"I'll move my family here next week," McLain said. "We have four children aged 7, 5, 4 and 10 months but I think the move will be hardest on my pet duck. His name is Donald."

Heather Surprises Swim Team

LONDON (UPI) — Heather Greenwood, a 15-year-old from Fresno, Calif., came very close to causing the United States swim team selectors acute embarrassment.

The 5-foot, 7½ inch, 135-pound schoolgirl emerged from the two-day Coca Cola International meeting at Crystal Palace Monday as the top American woman freestyler.

Yet she was not included in the four-swimmer official team that won the team trophy from Australia, 118-117, and only just made the 28-strong squad for which she was third alternate.

That meant that Heather's 200-meter win—over Olympic champion and world record-holder Shane Gould, no less—plus two seconds and a third in four freestyle races earned the U.S. team not a single point.

It brought back memories of the last Coca Cola meet here two years ago when the U.S. lost by one point to Australia with non-scoring Rick Colella's four victories "wasted."

Ironically, Colella, of Seattle, Wash., saved the U.S. this year by winning the final 200-meter medley race to gain the eight points which dropped Australia to second place.

"We had no idea how good Heather was," Head Coach Dick Hannula of Tacoma, Wash., admitted.

"We should have included Heather instead of Keena Rothhammer, but if I had done so I would have been savagely criticized for preferring an unknown to an Olympic champion."

Miss Rothhammer, from Santa Clara, Calif., had an unhappy weekend and could only manage third place in the 800-meter freestyle, her gold medal event.

It was left to Heather to chase Miss Gould home in a time of nine minutes 4.9 seconds, nearly four seconds better than she has ever achieved before.

That performance came 15 minutes after the young Californian produced another personal best to beat the blonde Aussie in the 200-meters.

"My previous best was 2:8.7," she said after clocking 2:6.4, "and I knew that was nowhere near good enough to worry Shane.

"I usually go out fast and die on the last length," Heather, who is coached by her father, Ron, said. "This time I wanted desperately to win and kept saying to myself, 'keep going, keep going,' although I was still shaky after realizing what I had done in the 800-meters."

Another American to star on his first trip overseas was Ken Knox, a 20-year-old from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and also a non-scoring member of the squad.

Adolphus Leads Aqueduct Race

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alvin Tannenbaum's Gustavus Adolphus, alternating the lead with 2-1 favorite Onion, scored a one-length victory over the feature for four-year-olds and up at Aqueduct.

The winner, by Gustav-Painted Lady, raced the mile distance in 1:35 4-5 on a fast track. Rule By Reason was third in the seven-horse field, two lengths back of Onion.

Gustavus Adolphus took a half length lead at the quarter, as Onion stumbled out of the starting gate. Onion then pulled into the lead at the half mile by a half length, and doubled this margin at the three-quarters mark. But the four-year-old Gustavus Adolphus pulled ahead for good at the top of the stretch, leading Onion by a head and driving to the final one length margin at the wire.

Angel Cordero Jr., Gustavus Adolphus' jockey Monday, has been very successful with the winner. This is the third consecutive triumph for the winner, and the third straight time Cordero has ridden Gustavus Adolphus.

Gustavus Adolphus paid $8.60, $4.20 and $3.20 to his backers in the crowd of 24,661. Onion returned $3.40 and $2.80 and Rule By Reason paid $3.80.

Red Wings Name Garvin for Job

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings today named minor league coach Ted Garvin as the replacement for Johnny Wilson, fired as coach April 13.

Trap-Skeet Shooters—The Short Stick

NEW YORK (UPI) — The feud between the NCAA and AAU isn't the only barrier to potential United States superiority in international athletics. The trap and skeet shooters in this country also feel they are being sold short by lack of cohesion in their sport.

Two major organizations in the U.S.—the Amateur Trap Shooting Association and the National Skeet Shooting Association—promote the sport in this country, but it's the National Rifle Association that is recognized as the sanctioning body here by the International Shooting Union.

Bob Brister, shooting editor of Field & Stream magazine, believes the NRA is rifle and military oriented and hasn't successfully fulfilled its obligations to promote the international version of the sport.

"The NRA has diminished the success of U.S. teams in international competition by virtually limiting its participants to military shooters," Brister observes. "There are many civilian shooters who would fair very well for the U.S., but are excluded from financial support to compete individually overseas."

Brister explains that marksmanship is an American heiritage. We have some top shooters, but are continnually being clobbered in the Olympics and other international competition."

Concerned with this decline of U.S. performance in shooting, Brister stresses the need for the NRA, ATSA and NSSA to end foreign domination in the sport by instituting supportive programs. Increased interest by colleges would also provide a talent pool for world competition.

"The American version of shooting has become almost automatic and weekend marksmen find it easy just mounting their guns on their shoulders and firing away at targets," Brister says. "Olympic rules are more difficult and more fun."

Original shooting rules called for a delay up to three seconds target was pulled. Americans eased the regulations by having the target released instantaneously, which takes the guess work out of leading the target before firing.

"Europeans shoot by the old rule and are beating us to death at our own game," Brister laments. "We have a pool of great shooters who never shoot international style."

Basically, American trap shooting consists of one trap catapulting a target aloft, while skeet shooting has two traps facing each other at the end of a semicircle.

In the 1972 Olympics, not one, but 15 traps were used. They were arranged in a line, set in five groups of three. The difficulty for American shooters was instantly noted. An Olympic target must be hurled a minimum of 71 meters, compared to the American requirement of 60.

To attain the greater distance, the target must be flung at a higher rate of speed, causing a far greater variety of lateral and vertical angles. The clay birds can skim only a few feet above the ground or climb almost vertically.

Mark Donohue Will Be Ready For Indy '500'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Auto racing notes:

Mark Donohue was adjusting the tongue of a boat trailer at the Penske Racing Shop in Newtown Square, Pa., on April 4 when a jack slipped and slammed his right thumb against the car bumper. The thumb was fractured but that won't keep him from defending his Indianapolis 500 championship on May 28.

Donohue may be forced to wear some foam rubber padding to protect the digit while driving a Roger Penske-entered McLaren or Eagle.

"At first I thought I would lose the thumb," Donohue told Chris Economaki, editor of National Speed Sport News, after the accident, "but after only one night in the hospital, doctors decided they could repair the damage."

Donohue will be driving in the Indy classic without a United States Auto Club license. The USAC does not allow its licensed drivers to race in the Sports Car Club of America-sanctioned L&M Continental championship and this may have led Donohue to make his decision. He is on safe grounds at Indianapolis, however. Despite Indy being a USAC championship race, it is held under international jurisdiction and the 36-year-old driver will enter the race on his Federation International license...

The STP racing team has an ambitious schedule this year. Richard Petty will alternate cars for short tracks and superspeedway events during the NASCAR Grand National series. On the USAC championship tour, Art Pollard and Wally Dallenbach will drive Ford-powered STP Lolas. Frenchman Jeanne Pierre Jarier has the assignment in Formula I and II races, driving a Ford-powered March in the One's and a March with a BMW racing engine in the Two's. Graham McRae, winner of the 1973 Australia-New Zealand Tasman Series, handles Formula 5000 races in the United States. Jarier won the Jim Clark Memorial at Hockenheim, West Germany, this month in a European Formula II championship series...

Al Unser, winner of the Texas 200, but shut out in the Trenton split 300, believes somebody will post a 200 mile per hour lap at the million-dollar Indy race. Unser's brother, Bobby, set the lap record of 196.6 m.p.h. during qualifications at Indianapolis last year.

"I definitely think it will happen next month at Indy, and I hope I'm the one who does it first," said Al, who won at Indianapolis in 1970 and 1971.

Al, Mario Andretti and Joe Leonard, members of the Vel's Parnelli Jones racing team, were told by owners Jones and Vel Miletich they each will have a new 1973 Parnelli back-up car when they qualify at Indy. The six cars were recently completed at the team's workshop in Torrance, Calif...

Horse Leaders Slate May 20 Date for Show

NEW PALTZ

Ulster County 4-H Light Horse Leaders will hold their sixth annual Open horse show Sunday, May 20, at the Ulster County Fair Grounds. The show starts promptly at 8:30 a.m.

There will be 29 classes in both English and Western divisions, including a few pony classes and a driving class. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded in each class. All post entries at $2 per class. The show will be held rain or shine. A current EIA and VEE certificate will be required.

The Western judge will be John Moody and the English judge John DeBardadillo. All proceeds of the show will go to the Scholarship Fund which is available to all High School seniors in the Ulster County 4-H Horse program.

Refreshments will be available on the grounds. For further information contact Mrs. Marion Layman, RD 2, Box 227, Saugerties, N.Y. or Mrs. Nancy Crisman, Box 53, Stone Ridge, N.Y.

Bond and Mercer With Ithaca '9'

ITHACA

Outfielder Michael Bond of Saugerties and pitcher Edward Mercer of Woodstock are currently performing with the 1973 Ithaca College junior varisty baseball team.

The Ithacans will play a 13 game schedule this year, including four games with crosstown rival Cornell.

Bond, a '72 graduate of Saugerties High School, is the son of Mrs. Pearl Bond of 11 Spalding Lane in Saugerties.

Mercer, a 1970 graduate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Mercer of 54 Overlook Drive in Woodstock.

Hart, Medich Solve Milwaukee Riddle

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two products of a specialized age — an aspiring orthopedic surgeon and a retread slugger who hopes to prolong his baseball career as a designated hitter — helped snap the Milwaukee Brewers' four-game winning streak Monday night.

George Medich, a third year medical student at the University of Pittsburgh, posted his first big league pitching victory and National League castoff Jim Ray Hart drove in two runs with a single and double as the New York Yankees defeated the Brewers 5-2.

Hart's double knocked in what proved to be the decisive run as the Yanks scored three times in the fifth inning for a 5-0 lead. The Brewers chased Medich with sixth inning homers by rookies Pedro Garcia and Bob Coluccio, but reliever Lindy McDaniel saved the victory.

Hart, purchased earlier this month from the San Francisco Giants, has eight hits in 13 times at bat and five runs batted in for the Yanks—all as a designated hitter. Not surprisingly, his first impression of the new American League rule is favorable.

"Its' helped my concentration on hitting and maybe this can help me last three or four more years,," said Hart, 31, who twice hit more than 30 home runs and three times drove in more than 90 runs in his years with the Giants.

"Being new to the league, it's helped me to be able to sit in the dugout and study the pitchers to learn something about them. And I don't have to worry about fielding ground balls," said Hart, never known for golden glove ability at third base.

Much less enthusiastic about the rule is Joe Lahoud, who has just two hits in 27 times at bat to show as a designated hitter for the Brewers. Lahoud stranded five runners Monday night while going 0-for-4.

"It's not an easy job," Lahoud said. "I wasn't a designated hitter all spring, and it's tough to keep your mind on the game when you're not in the field. But if that's what the man wants, I'll do it."

John Briggs walked and George Scott singled after Coluccio's homer to chase Medich.

Don Money, first batter to face McDaniel, hit a potential double play grounder to Gene Michael, but Briggs plowed into the Yankee shortstop in trying block his view of the ball. Briggs was ruled out for interference and Michael left the game with muscle spasms, but Money was safe at first and Darrell Porter walked, filling the bases.

Lahoud, however, struck out to end the inning. Lahoud stranded two more runners in the eighth when Matty Alou caught his drive against the right-field wall.

In the only other American League game, the California Angels whipped the Oakland A's 4-0 while the Houston Astros blanked the San Diego Padres 2-0 in the only National League action.

Still on a medical kick, the Astros ran their winning streak to five in a row, all since Manager Leo Durocher was confined to a Houston hospital with an inflammation of the colon. Dave Roberts and Jim York scattered eight hits and Doug Rader hit a two-run homer in the second inning. Loser Bill Greif had not allowed a run in 15 innings this season when he walked Jim Wynn with one out in the second and Rader, batting only .177, hammered his home run about halfway up the mezzanine section in left field.

The game was spiced by an apparent brushback duel between Roberts and Greif in the fifth inning. Members of both teams poured onto the field but no punches were thrown.

Rudy May pitched a five-hitter and Frank Robinson delivered a two-run single to lead the Angels over the floundering world champion A's.

The Angels scored three times in the third inning in sending winless John "Blue Moon" Odom to his fourth defeat.

Cazzie Revives Warriors

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors are still alive in their NBA Playoff Series against the Los Angeles Lakers, and both sides agree that Cazzie Russell is the reason why.

The Warriors, reeling from an incredible 126-70 disaster Saturday night, finally flashed a little of the form that got them past Milwaukee in the first round of playoffs by dumping the mighty Lakers 117-109 Tuesday night. Russell, who had hit only 14 points in the first three playoff battles, came off the bench to register 33 points in 29 minutes of play and spark the victory.

That put the series at 3-1 Los Angeles and set up a rematch Wednesday night on the Lakers' home court.

Russell, who admits he would like to start, has been a bench-warmer this season behind Rick Barry and Clyde Lee. Russell and Barry are shooters and coach Al Attles says he needs the defense the rebounding of Lee at one starting spot.

But Russell said after his great show Tuesday that "I really felt ready tonight. You always have to be ready off the bench. I pushed myself especially hard and it was one of my better shooting games." He hit six shots in a row in one second quarter burst.

Coach Al Attles said the team was down after Saturday's inept performance, but got rid of its frustrations in a Sunday practice.

He told his team to play its usual run-and-shoot game and that if it couldn't improve on its 23 per cent shooting figure of Saturday "we deserved to lose."

Russell agreed that the Warriors have been in trouble whenever they "stopped running. We're probably the worst team in the world when we stop and set up patterns. We've got to move to be effective."

Asked why he left Russell in near the end of the game instead of Barry, Attles said "I'll use Cazzie for whatever he can do best. Whenever Rick isn't doing so well offensively, I never hesitate in going to Cazzie for a lift."

Jerry West, whose clutch shooting sank the Warriors in the first three wins, missed a couple down the stretch for a change but still led the Lakers with 32. He pegged Russell as the key and said Cazzie was "super." He also said the Warriors "aggressive" defense turned the tables in the fourth contest.

Nate Thurmond had a big night in his awesome pivot battle with Wilt Chamberlain of the Lakers, hitting 23 points.

Thurmond said afterwards that 'when you're down 0-3, you've got to give it all you've got. There was a great crowd behind us and we were embarrassed Saturday, so we had to play a strong game."

Chamberlain, asked how the Lakers felt, said "when you're up 3-0 you should feel relaxed and confident. The pressure should have been on them. They reacted well to it. Nate played a fine game and shot well. To tell the truth I'm surprised we were able to come back so well after they got on top of us. I felt strong, but it's a lot tougher out there without (Jim) McMillian and (Wayne) Erickson in top shape. McMillian has a knee sprain and Erickson, an ankle sprain and they managed only 10 points as McMillian was unable to return after the intermission.

Golden State led by as much as 17 points midway through the second quarter, but the Lakers went ahead 64-58 in the third stanza as West personally outscored the Warriors 17-11 in one nine-minute stretch.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the third stanza before Golden State finally went ahead to stay on Jim Barnett' basket with four seconds to go.

Golden State rode the shooting of Thurmond and Russell to a six-point lead early in the fourth quarter and then finally moved further ahead in the final minutes. It was the Warriors' cold shooting in the closing moments that lost the first two games on Los Angeles' home court. This time the Lakers managed only one basket in the final 3:38 of play.

Philly Brings in Nizer To Postpone NBA Draft

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — To draft or not to draft. That question facing the National Basketball Association today in court—a court of law, not a playing floor for games.

Louis Nizer, the famed trial lawyer, was scheduled to go before the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals seeking a temporary restraining order stopping the NBA from holding its 1973 draft of collegiate players, scheduled to begin two hours later.

Nizer's court appearance was planned for 10 a.m., EST.

If Nizer, representing the disgruntled Philadelphia 76ers, succeeds it would be the third postponement of the draft. The league itself delayed the draft two other times as a result of the John Brisker case.

"We are in the process of hoping there will be no draft," said Irv Kosloff, owner of the 76ers.

If the NBA is forced to push its draft back again, the American Basketball Association, scheduled to pick on Wednesday, will do likewise. The ABA says it will draft after the NBA does, whenever that occurs.

The issue in the law courts is who will get draft pick No. 4—Philadelphia or Seattle.

Once that's decided, the issue of who'll draft No. 1 may be decided between Philadelphia and Chicago—or in a doctor's office.

Developments in the NBA Monday night resembled a three-ring circus performance.

A sidelight, but not connected to the principal issue, was the sudden resignation of Kevin Loughery as coach of the 76ers to go to the rival ABA's New York Nets as head coach.

The 76ers disclosed a trade with Chicago for the No. 1 draft pick, which is not at issue in the court case, then hedged on it, admitting that it wasn't final.

Things started popping about sundown Monday, after a day of rumors, when the 76ers announced they had traded the No. 1 draft pick—rightfully theirs because of the worst record in the Eastern Conference and a successful coin flip with Portland, the Western Conference's worst team—to Chicago.

The trade announced had 6-foot-9 center Clifford Ray and other considerations going to Philadelphia in exchange for the No. 1 pick. The rub was that Ray had to pass a physical examination.

In Chicago, Bulls' General Manager Pat Williams said of the trade: "It's still a rumor. If a trade is consumated, we'll announce it. Every club in the league is wheeling and dealing, but so far there have been no trades."

The legal rub comes from Seattle's signing last summer of John Brisker, who was drafted in 1969 by the 76ers. The Philadelphia club complained and Kennedy punished Seattle by giving its No. 1 draft choice to the 76ers. Last Wednesday the NBA board of governors reversed Kennedy and gave Seattle its first-round pick back but awarded Philadelphia a bonus pick at the end of the first round and transferred Seattle's second-round choices this year and next to Philadelphia.

Loughery Jumps 76ers For Job With Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Nets, sticking to tradition, have hired a St. John's man as their new head coach.

In a rather confusing set of circumstances, it was learned Monday night that Kevin Loughery has resigned as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association to take over the New York Nets of the rival American Basketball Association.

Loughery is the fourth coach in the six year history of the Nets and like two of his three predecessors, Max Zaslofsky and Lou Carnesecca, he attended St. John's (N.Y.). Carnesecca left following the Nets' elimination in the ABA playoffs earlier this month to return as coach of his alma mater.

Loughery replaced Roy Rubin as head coach of the 76ers during the NBA All-Star break last January but couldn't prevent the team from compiling the worst record in league history with a 9-73 mark. The 6-foot-3, 190 pound backcourtman, who served as a player-coach, was traded to Philadelphia, along with Fred Carter, in 1971 in exchange for Archie Clark.

Loughery's move to the Nets was disclosed by 76ers general manager Don DeJardin who said Kevin phoned him with the news that he had agreed to a long-term contract with the Nets.

"I was totally surprised, shocked and disappointed", said DeJardin about Loughery's announcement he planned to join the Nets. DeJardin added he had been waiting to meet with Loughery to discuss the 76ers' college player draft plans when he received Loughery's phone call.

Taylor Top Rookie

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Keeping up with his football-playing big brother and answering those who criticized him for leaving Princeton in his junior year helped motivate New York Nets guard Brian Taylor in winning the American Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year honors.

Taylor, who will be 22 in June, is here for a month's visit with his brother, Bruce, 25, who as a San Francisco 49er cornerback won the National Football Conference Rookie Defensive Player of the Year award in 1970.

Sports writers and broadcasters in 10 ABA cities in a vote announced Monday gave Taylor 24 votes to 22 for Jim Silas of the Dallas Chaparrals.

Rangers Face Elimination

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks, in command with a 3-1 advantage, swoop in for the kill tonight against the reeling New York Rangers in the fifth game of their best-of-7 Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The National Hockey League West champion Hawks, sailing on three successive victories after a stinging 4-1 opening defeat, are in excellent position to avenge a four-game elimination last year by the Rangers in the semifinals.

The Hawks and Rangers have marked time since last Thursday's 3-1 triumph by Chicago at New York, a four-day delay dictated by the NHL to permit the Montreal-Philadelphia semifinal series to catch up.

Now it appears the Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens have a chance to tangle in the Cup finals beginning Sunday at Montreal. The NHL said the series would start then in Montreal if the Black Hawks and Canadiens wrap up their series by Thursday night.

The Canadiens, like the Hawks, lost their semifinal opener and then swept three straight to set up a possible clincher at Montreal tonight.

In the World Hockey Associatio, playoffs, Winnipeg takes a 2-0 lead to Houston tonight

Game 3 of the best-of-7 West Division finals. The East Division finals resume on Thursday at Boston with New England holding a 3-1 lead over Cleveland.

Hawk Coach Billy Reay is cautious about his team's chance to deal a knockout blow to the Rangers, who have been brilliantly handcuffed by Chicago goalie Tony Esposito in the last two games.

"You won't find anything different between these two clubs since the series started," said Reay. "We're just happy that we have only to win one of three games if it goes all the way and they have to win all three."

The four-day layoff gave extra time to mend to such hobbled Hawks as Pit Martin, playing with a pulled groin muscle; rookie Phil Russell, who has an ailing knee, and veteran Stan Mikita, who no longer needs special taping of a fractured heel.

However, scrappy defenseman Keith Magnuson's expected return to action after suffering a broken jaw in the Hawks' 5-4 victory April 15 has been ruled out by Reay.

Brewers Option Rich Auerbach

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Monday the purchase of shortstop Tim Johnson, 23, from the Los Angeles Dodgers' Albuquerque farm club.

The Brewers also optioned shorstop Rick Auerbach to Albuquerque.

Johnson was hitting .261 in seven games for Albuquerque while Auerbach got only one hit in nine times at bat in six games with the Brewers.

Secreto's 7 RBIs Pace Kingston Win

KINGSTON — The Kingston High School sluggers went to work on a parade of four Poughkeepsie pitchers at Dietz Stadium Monday and the result was a 15-6 slaughter that upped the Maroons' DCSL record to 3-1.

The win moved Kingston into a tie with Arlington for first place as the Admirals suffered an 11-3 defeat to Ketcham in a rain-shortened game. In other contests, Lourdes topped John Jay, 6-4 and Roosevelt edged Beacon, 2-1.

Rocky Secreto the biggest stick for the Maroons as he collected four hits, one of them a two-run homer in the second inning, and drove in seven runs. But his wasn't the only hot bat in the KHS lineup.

Dan Brown also slammed four safeties, and seven other Maroons improved their batting averages. The four Pioneer hurlers were tagged for a total of 18 hits including a triple by John Carter and a Double by Walt Houghtaling.

Kingston wasted no time in getting things rolling. Brown cracked a leadoff single in the first, Secreto followed suit, and Houghtaling loaded the bases with a walk. Jim Milano then rescued the situation with a two-out single that scored two runs, and Carter bashed his three-bagger to make the lead 4-0. Carter, trying to stretch it into a homer, was nailed at the plate to end the inning.

Kingston scored in every inning and provided Bob Marz with more than enough cushion to pick up the win. Marz, struggling with some control problems, went 5 2/3 innings and allowed four runs on eight hits before giving way to Dave Decker.

Vin Pecchia, who lasted less than two innings, took the defeat.

Helen Duntz NS Qualifier

CLAVERACK — Helen Beth Duntz, a member of the Columbia Country Club and one of the top performers in the Northeastern Women's Golf Association, fired an opening round 84 in the opening round of the 71st annual North and South Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Pinehurst, N.C.

Miss Duntz and several other New York State women qualified for today's second round in the 32-player field.

Janet Anne Coles, a pig-tailed 18-year-old from Aptos, Calif., shot a one-over par 75 to take medalist honors.

Miss Coles the 1972 Northern California champion, who lost to Curtis Cupper Lancy Smith of Snyder, N. Y. here last year, fired five birdies in her round of 36-39 on the par 37-37 No. 2 course at Pinehurst Country Club.

Defending champion Mrs. Jane Bastenchury Booth of Whittier, Calif. and Palm Beach, Fla., was exempt from qualifying but reported a 72 in her practice round.

Approximately 60 golfers from around the nation competed for the 32-player field in the tournament which will feature one round today, two rounds Wednesday and single rounds Thursday and Friday.

At 76 Monday were Mrs. Judith Oliver of Pittsburgh and Pat O'Brien of Pittsfield, Mass.

The field included a mother and daughter and a pair of sisters. Mrs. Harton Semple of Sewickley, Pa., outscored her daughter, Carolina, 82 to 84.

Alice Susan Wood of Decatur, Ga., bested her sister Terry, 84 to 86.

The New York State field, in addition to Miss Duntz, and their scores were: Janice Krna, Binghamton, 84; Dorothy Germain, Pleasant Gardens, 81; Lancy Smith, Snyder, 77; Cathy Morse, Rochester, 79; Mary Pat Circher, Pittsford, 83; April B. Bain, Williamsville, 86.

Upshaw Traded

ATLANTA (AP) — Relief pitcher Cecil Upshaw has been traded by the Atlanta Braves to the Houston Astros for outfielder Norm Miller and a player to be named later.

Upshaws' trade was announced Sunday by the Braves and comes in the seventh year the 30-year-old right-hander had been with the club.

Secretariat, Angle Light Must Run Derby as Entry

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — William H. May, chairman of the Kentucky State Racing Commission, confirmed Monday night that trainer Lucien Laurin has been denied permission to race Secretariat and Angle Light as separate entries in the Kentucky Derby May 5.

May said at his home here that a racing commission rule prohibits two horses trained by the same trainer to be run as separate entries in a race.

Laurin, who trains the separately-owned Secretariat and Angle Light, had asked permission to split the entries in the 99th Kentucky Derby 10 days ago, May said. He said there was some sentiment among commission members to grant Laurin's request, but their hands were tied by the rule, set several years ago by a previous commission.

May said the commission had to give Kentucky's Legislative Research Commission 30 days notice of any rule changes. He said the only other avenue open was for the governor to declare an emergency, and "I didn't consider a horse race an emergency."

"To change the rule would have required a meeting of the commission and the governor declaring the emergency and that would have taken a whole lot of doing for just a couple of horses," May said.

According to May, a racing commission staff member has been trying unsuccessfully for the past five days to contact Laurin and notify him of the decision.

Secretariat, recently syndicated for $6.08 million, was a heavy pre-Derby favorite before being upset in Saturday's Wood Memorial by Angle Light.

May said that part of Laurin's desire to split the entry was his fear that the lightly regarded Angle Light might interfere with another horse in the race and be disqualified, thus causing Secretariat to also be disqualified.

He noted, however, that was before Saturdays' Wood Memorial.

Predict Trade Boom

BALTIMORE (UPI) — National Football League teams will probably do more trading than usual this summer, according to Baltimore Colts general manager Joe Thomas, who in less than a year has traded seven veteran players and sacked an entire coaching staff.

Thomas, at a news conference Monday, did not mention any Colt players he considers trade bait. But he noted that the trading market will quicken when summer camps open "and coaches have a chance to evaluate strengths and weaknesses."

Then, too, he said, the extension of the interconference trading deadline until the end of the exhibition season should automatically produce more trades.

Although Thomas didn't flinch last year while trading such stars as John Unitas, Tom Mackey and Tom Matte, he told newsmen he hoped he had persuaded all-pro defensive end Bubba Smith out of his desire to be traded.

"I think he has convinced himself he'd rather play in Baltimore than a couple of other cities," Thomas said. "Bubba has been in the office six times to talk about it and I think he definitely wants to play here and is serious about it. I want him to be the leader of our defensive line, not a follower."

After Thomas followed up his mid-season firing of Don McCafferty by firing interim coach John Sandusky and his full staff during Christmas week, Smith publicly announced he didn't like the way Thomas swept his broom.

Smith said he wanted out, and went so far as to rid himself of his posh bachelor pad in the Baltimore suburbs and move to Los Angeles.

Woolet's 2,104 Leads ABC

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Woolet of Louisville, Ky., was considered Monday the possible champion in the regular all-events with four weeks left in the 11-week American Bowling Congress Tournament here.

Woolet bowled 2,104 in all-events on April 13, the fourth highest total in the 70-year history of the ABC tournament. Last year, a score of 2,026 was good enough to win.

In singles, Bob Chappell of Wichita, Kan., leads with 740, one pin higher than last year's winning total.

The top team in doubles is Jamie Brooks and Jim Paine of Houston, Tex., with 1,337. The winning total was 1,350 last year.

The leading team in the regular division is Thelmal Masters of Louisville, Ky., with 3,118, 17 higher than the victors scored last year.

And in the booster division, Comcrudeslant of Newport, R.I., was out ahead with 2,854, 30 pins higher than the score that triumphed last year.

Scores Two

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Bill Inglis scored two goals in the final period Sunday night to help Cincinnati beat the Virginia Redwings 6-2 as the Swords evened up their American Hockey League Calder Cup championship playoff series at one game apiece.

The best of seven game series resumes Tuesday night in Norfolk, Va.

Player, Thomson Head Field in Chunichi Play

By LESLIE NAKASHIMA

NAGOYA, Japan, April 24 (UPI) — Five time British open champion Peter Thomson will face South African Gary Player and a strong field in defense of his 1972 championship in the $113,000 Chunichi Crowns International golf tournament, which starts Thursday.

Thomson, winner of the event in 1969, shot sub-par rounds of 64, 69, 67 and 66 for a record 14 under par 266 last year on the 6,530 yard par 70 Nagoya Golf Club's Wago course here.

A total of 138 competitors, including 28 foreigners, will tee off Thursday in the four-day event. The field will be cut to the top 50 scores and ties after the second round Friday.

First prize money is $18,867 plus a Japanese manufactured Crown De Luxe car worth $5,660.

Player, who underwent surgery in February and did not compete in the prestigious Masters at Augusta, Georgia, earlier this month for the first time in 17 years, is a special guest competitor. He will be playing for the first time this year out of South Africa.

Another guest competitor is American Dave Eichelberger. Invited last year were Sammy Snead, who placed fourth with a 275, and John Miller, who had a 278 and was tied for sixth place.

Player arrived on April 16 and said he had completely recovered from his surgery.

In his last appearance in Japan, Player won the Japan Air Lines Open tournament in May, 1972 on the 7,071 yard par 72 Narashino Country Club course in Chiba prefecture, near Tokyo by a one-stroke margin over Thomson, Lu Liang Huan of Taiwan, and Japanese pros Haruo Yasuda and Toru Nakamura, who were tied for second place.

The consensus of Japanese experts is that Player will be the man to beat.

Orange Races To Reutimanns

MIDDLETOWN — The famous Reutimann brothers made their Northern debut for the 1973 season a big success at the Orange County Fair, as the younger Wayne won the 30-lap Modified feature, with brother Buzzie second. While Wayne took the feature with a big margin to spare, the defending champion Brother Buzzie had tough going to finish second.

The packed house stood as one to watch the thrilling action unfold for second spot as Bobbie Bottcher and Stan Ploski pushed Buzzie into a virtual three-car blanket during the last six laps. They finished so close that the final outcome wasn't decided until after they had passed the checkered flag.

A Middletown driver, Don Elliott, won the 20-lap Limited Sportsmen feature after he took over from Ray Shea on the eighth lap. Elliott, running under the sponsor of the Cherry Brothers Construction Co., had an easy time of it despite several caution flags that bunched the field behind him.

Jim Bush of Franklin, N.J. won the Late Model main event of 15 laps.

KHS Jayvees Rout Pioneers

POUGHKEEPSIE — Kingston High School junior varsity baseball team continued its rampage through the DCSL Monday by pounding out 13 hits to defeat homestanding Poughkeepsie, 14-6 for its fourth straight win.

Bob Becker, Art Shelightner and Lou Eccleston led the attack while Paul Lawatsch, with relief help from Mark Chapman, picked up the victory.

Becker slammed three hits and drove in a pair of runs. Shelightner and Eccleston each had threeRBIs' on two hits.

Entry Blanks Available For County Golf Crusade

NEW PALTZ — Entry blanks for the Second Annual Ulster County Golf Crusade for the benefit of the American Cancer Society are now available at all area golf clubs

The deadline for entries for the Saturday, May 26, tournament at Locust Tree Golf and Country Club is May 15.

The tournament is open to all golfers with a bonafide club handicap, regardless of skill.

"This is primarily a fun tournament," said Tournament Director Charles J. Tiano," although we expect to attract the best men and women golfers in the county. Our prize list is as attractive as last year's"

The event will be limited to the first 100 entrees with morning and afternoon rounds.

"Starting times will be alloted on a first come, first served basis," said the director. "Play will be in threesomes or foursomes and golfers are invited to make up their own pairings."

Dinner will start at the conclusion of the morning round and will be served continuously until all players in the field have eaten.

Woodstock Country Club has already filed entries for three foursomes and more are expected.

The net proceeds will go to the Kingston Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Horse Racing Remains No. 1 Sports Draw

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the inroads of off-track betting in New York City, horse racing remained the No. 1 spectator sport for the 21st consecutive year, according to statistics compiled by Triangle Publications.

While horse racing (thoroughbreds and trotters) suffered its first box office dropoff since 1967, basketball and football made the biggest gains.

Horse racing lost 2,938,893 spectators (1,940,850 in New York), according to the survey, but still leads the parade of the 10 sports polled with a total attendance of 74,015,395.

Of the 10 sports, only horse racing and baseball showed decreases. Horse racing was down 3.8 per cent and baseball down 5.7 per cent.

Basketball (pros and college) picked up 1,838,670 fans during 1972 for a totalo f 34,441,704, an incredible 14 million more than attended games just five years ago. The 1,243 colleges in the poll were mainly responsible for basketball's jump with a gain of 1,293,611 for fourth place behind horse racing, football and baseball.

Football (pros and college) held on to the second spot with a record total of 43,025,559, an increase of nearly 1 million spectators. The National Football League, playing its games to more than 90 per cent capacity, accounted for a gain of 537,129 while the 620 college teams polled were up 373,360.

Percentage-wise, baseball was the biggest loser in attendance in 1972, suffering an overall drop of 2,359,666 fans. Major league baseball was down 7.6 per cent but the minor leagues fell off only 2.6 per cent. Baseball's total attendance for the year was 38,896,479.

Hockey shot up by 4.9 per cent during the past year, attracting 17,851,905, many of whom watched the game played on an amateur level. The attendance in the National Hockey League was up 2.8 per cent.

There were minor gains in greyhound racing, boxing, wrestling, soccer and automobile racing.

The Automobile Almanac reports that 45 million spectators watched car racing in 1972 and that represents an increase of 1,300,000. No official attendance records were kept. On an unofficial basis, auto racing would be No. 2 to horse racing.

In a combined total, more than 275,000,000 spectators paid their way through the turnstiles to watch those 10 sports in 1972.

Namath Is No. 1 In Griese's Book

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese says Joe Namath might be the best passer pro football has ever known, but Namath should rely on the Jets' running game a little more.

Griese, rating the NFL's top quarterbacks for the Miami Herald, also said Terry Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers should spend more time watching films to help him read defenses.

"Joe (Namath) is just phenomenal, doing what he has, being injured as much as he has," Griese said. "On a good day he's out there having a picnic. Joe can probably throw it better than anybody has ever thrown it.

"I just think Joe is trying to throw too much," Griese added. "Of course the Jets had a lot of runners hurt, but I think Joe could reassess the situation and be better by toning down and using the entire 11 players a little better rather than just him and his receivers."

Griese, himself rated in a tie for No. 1 with Namath in a recent issue of a national football magazine, credited Bradshaw with turning the Steelers around.

"He has the arm and strength," Griese said. "All Terry needs to do is prepare a little bit more for a game. Terry should watch more films so he knows more of what to expect."

Of 37-year-old Lenny Dawson, the Kansas City Chiefs' veteran quarterback, Griese said: "Putting it realistically, Lenny is probably past his prime. He has been great and he has some good football left in him, but I don't know if he has the imagination any more to do the things that are unexpected."

But the Dolphin quarterback was full of praise for Dawson's understudy, Mike Livingston. "Mike has the arm, intelligence, youth, leadership," he said.

Griese on other quarterbacks:

John Brodie, San Francisco —"They talk about him retiring. I wish he would. Amazing thing, he's done what he's done without much of a running attack. I'm afraid he can go on for several more years."

Bobby Douglass, Chicago — "Douglass has gotten about as much out of his ability as he can. Clubs are going to stack up against him as a runner. He is not a good passer."

Norm Snead, New York Giants "He had a fantastic year with the Giants. It's a great tribute to him."

What's In a Horse's Name? . . . Plenty

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's in a name?

Just about everything if you're a once-a-year racing fan whose action is confined to an office pool or a small Kentucky Derby wager placed with a friend who knows the friendly neighborhood bookie.

Numerology, tea leaves and the stab-at-random hatpin system cpreferred by little old ladies are helpful handicapping methods for once-a-year types but in the end it usually comes downn to a fistful of unfamiliar names tossed into a pool. The Derby is coming up May 5 so now is the time to get acquainted with a few of those names.

This list, with utterly unreliable handicapper's comments, includes the stars most likely to be heard from on Derby day and some that may never be heard from again:

Secretariat—Hunch bet for stenographers but that's not all; this 3-5 shot is rated highly Bold Ruler colt that can win the Derby. Bold Ruler and three of his sons all failed.

Sham—Might fool 'em.

Champagne Charlie — Sometimes gets in late.

Stop The Music—Reluctant finisher.

Impecunious—Poor he ain't

Out of the East—A real after winning Arkansas Derby. confused kid. Actually, he's out tf the west.

Pleasure Castle—X-rated.

Starkers—Worth watching.

Warbucks—For Orphan Annie buffs.

Step Nicely — Needs a fast track for that.

Navajo — Marlon Brando favorite.

Flush—Could be a bet down the drain.

Restless Jet — For Joe Namath fans.

Red Slugger—Johnny Bench special.

Shecky Greene—This one's no joker.

Hearts of Lettuce—Some are boycotting this.

Royal and Regal—May be an imposter; his old man was only Vaguely Noble.

Vodika—Easier to take without the "i."

Forego—Chance if only four go.

Mr. Prospector—A born hustler; his Mom was Gold Digger.

Game Lad—But is he a game horse?

Our Native—We're disowning him.

Dawn Flight—May have nothing left for the afternoon.

My Gallant—Good manners won't help on the run to the first turn.

I Will Rule—Positive thinker; got in after entries "officially" closed.

Angle Light—His Mom (Pilot Light) could turn on the gas.

Big Heist—Might steal it.

Broadway Playboy—May not be in shape.

Chromedome—Slow learner.

Court Ruling—He'll need it.

Cutlass—Needs sharpening.

Daniel Boone—Knows the country.

Hey Rube—He's in trouble.

I'm Guaranteed—Get it in writing.

Macadamian — A real nutty one.

Magic Bite—Hunch for denture wearers.

Makemeadeal—Easy to refuse.

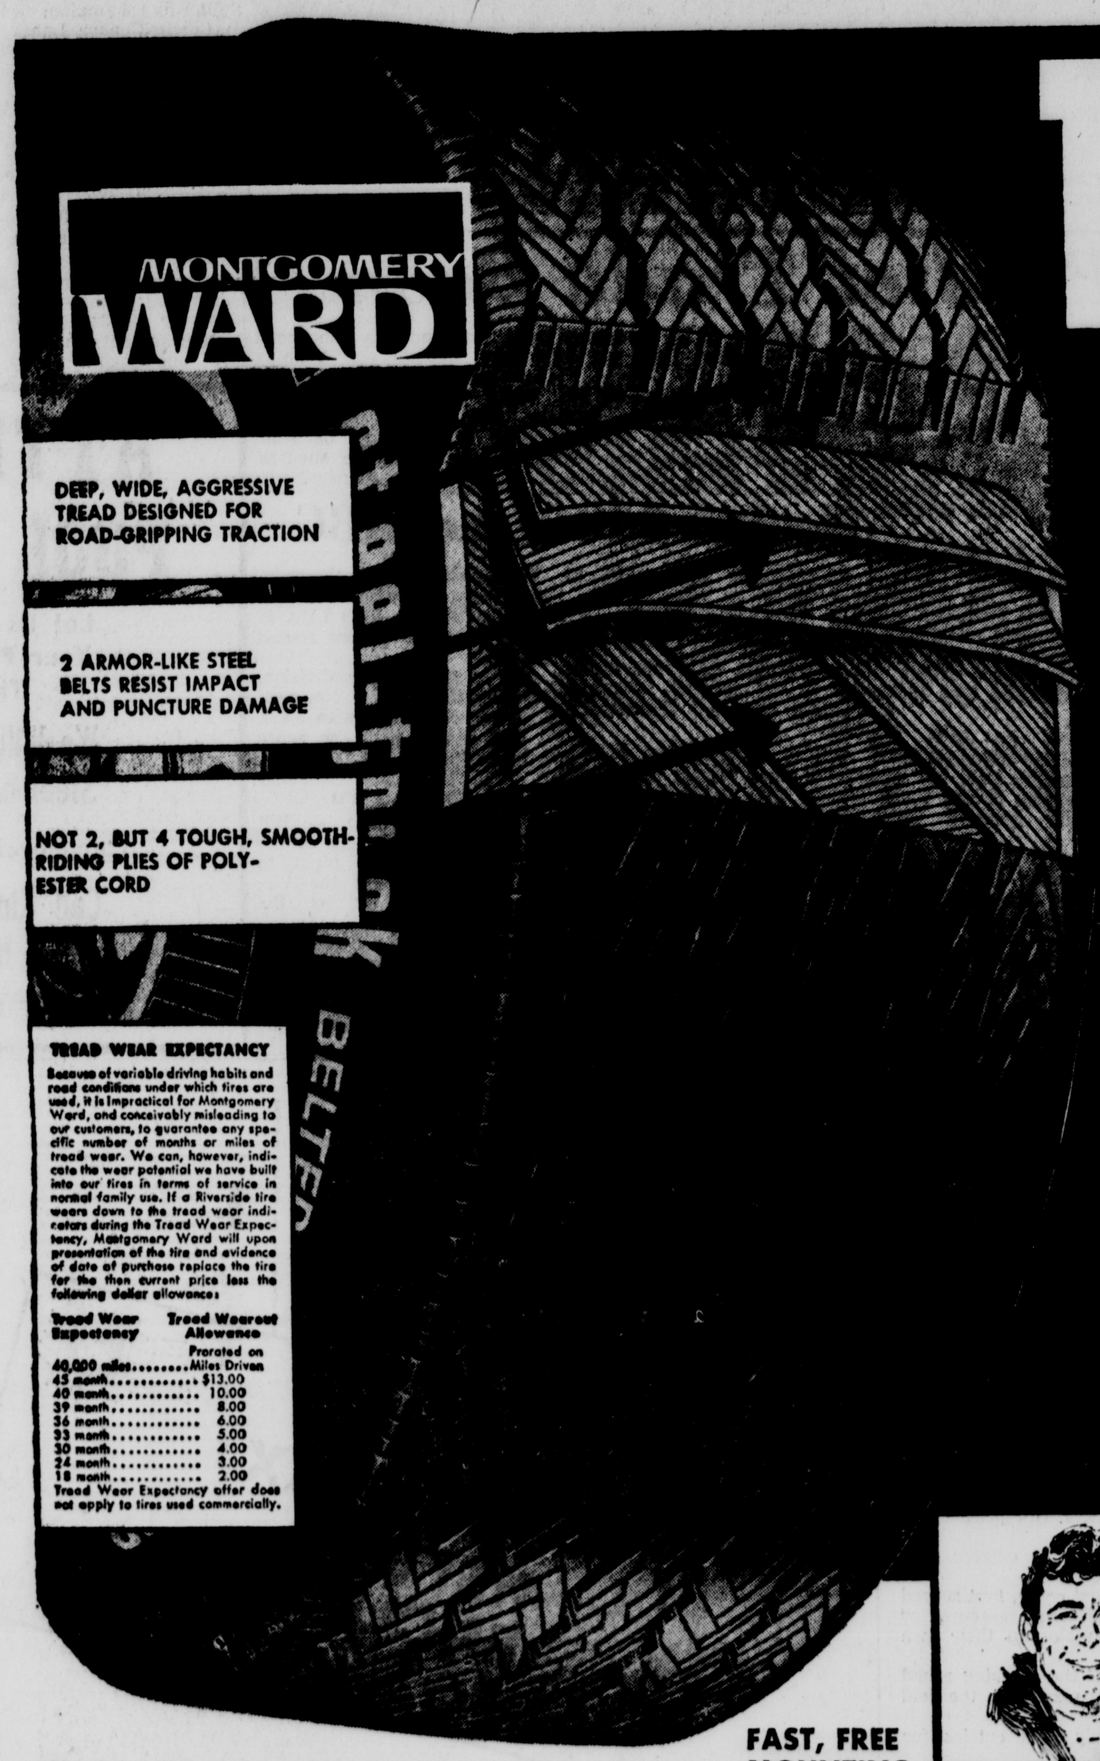

Midnight Tattoo—Could be taps in the afternoon.

La Prevoyante—That means one of keen foresight which oughta tell this little lady not to mix with those rough kids in a race that's never been lost on a foul.

Groshawk—Hard to figure this bird.

Party Planned For Galbraith

MONTICELLO The management of Monticello Raceway is planning a party for the popular trainer-driver Clint Galbraith and everyone connected with the Sullivan County oval is hoping that the celebration takes place tonight. The reason for the festivities will be Clint's 1,000th career victory.

A 35-year old native of Tara, Ontario, Canada, Galbraith needs only one more win to hit the 1000 mark following the racing Saturday night at Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia. He registered his 999th victory that evening with Dexter Hanover in 2:00.1 in the $15,000 Easter Bonnet Pace.

He will have four drives on tonight's card at the Mighty M. His best chance to reach the winners' circle will probably come with Damfer Hanover (PP8), the 3-1 morning line favorite in the third race on the program. A 3-year-old son of Bullet Hanover-Lisa Hanorver, owned by Bob Ferrar of Monticello, Damfer Hanover was an impressive second last week in his local debut to Torpid Time, who paced the mile in 2:05.3. Damfer Hanover was clocked in 2:06 and looks an though, with expected improvement, that he should be able to break his maiden this week.

Galbraith will also handle Lucretia's Pride (PP6) in the feature $1800 trot slated for the sixth race; Brazil (PP2) another green 3-year-old in the seventh; and Bullet Freight (PP 5) in the tenth race Trifecta. Bullet Freight was sixth in his first start at Monticello last week and will benefit from fast early fractions, as he is noted as a strong finisher.

Clint has been associated with top horses throughout his career, with the outstanding trotter Top Freight his leading standardbred. Galbraith drove him to a 1:59.4 victory as a 3-year-old and won many stakes with the Pay Freight Squaregaiter. Other fleet members of his stable included Naigara Byrd, winner of the $47,500 Atlantic Seaboard Pace and the Multiple stakes winner Naigara Beauty, who won most of her money in the New York Sires Stakes. Presently, Clint's top money winner is Dexter Hanover, a brother to world champion Romeo and Romulus Hanover. The 5-yearo-ld stallion banked $73,495 in 29 starts last year.

Hudson Homers Pace KHS Win

Alana Hudson slammed two homers, a double and single and knocked in six runs to pace Kingston High School girls to a 31-3 softball rout of Lindout Valley in a non-league game. Kathy Longendyke limited Rondout to three hits, fanned six and had four RBIs with a homer, triple and two singles.

Pam Thomas slugged a homer and three singles and Glenda Wisner homered, doubled and hit two singles, as each knocked in three runs. Kingston scored 14 runs in the fifth inning.

Duhon Retires From Pro Grid

The New York Football Giants revealed today that veteran running back Bobby Duhon had announced his retirement from the NFL.

A No. 3 draft choice in 1963 from Tulane, the versatile Duhon had been plagued by injuries in recent years, although he was the Giants' leading rusher in 1971, a solid pass receiver and a top punt return specialist.

Duhon was out all of 1969 with a knee injury but in his four playing seasons had 2,559 total yardage for Giants. He rushed 221 times for 840 yards, caught 86 passes for 717 yards, returned 40 pounts for 286 yards and 40 kickoffs for 716 yards.

ON TRIAL — A pensive Secretariat, an upset victim in the Wood Memorial, moves toward his training quarters at Aqueduct. He is now Churchill Downs-bound hoping to make amends for his defeat by winning the Kentucky Derby on May 5.

Bass Fishing Tourney Is Planned in Hudson

The Greater Newburgh Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the first annual Mid-Hudson Striped Bass Tourament. The event will run for a month and will be restricted to that part of the Hudson encompassed by the Poughkeepsie Bridge on the north and the Bear Mountain Bridge to the south.

The tournament will begin at 12 noon an April 27 and continue until 12 noon on May 29th. A $2 registration fee will be required for the contestants over 16 years of age, while registrants under 16 years of age will pay a $1.00 fee. registration will be handled by the Greater Newburgh and Beacon Chambers of Commerce and by area merchants in both Orange and Dutchess Counties.

"For many years, scientists, biologists and fishermen have raved about the tremendous population of big striped bass," says William E. Lockwood, executive director of the Newburgh Chamber. "Yet there seems to be little interest in fishing for them. This is precisely the reason why the Greater Newburgh Chamber is sponsoring the tournament to unlock the secrets of the Hudson River striped bass once and for all."

The Chamber will use the registration fees as the sole source of revenue for cash awards. It is hoped that substantial cash prizes will lure downstaters up to our area to show us how to catch fish in the Hudson and will prove to be an incentive in attracting local anglers. There will be men's and women's divisions in both 16 years and over and 15 years and under that will share in the cash prizes.

At Rosendale

Boxing Club

ROSENDALE The Rosendale Boxing Club is looking for any organization in the area to give them competition. The club has members who vary in age from 7 to 16, with some future Golden Glove material in the group.

The club is coached by George Montgomery of Bloomington, a former Golden Glover. A physical education instructor in the armed forces in the 1950s, Montgomery coached professional boxer Spider Walker from New Orleans and worked in this area with former contender Rocky Catsellano and Golden Gloves champion, Kenny Barr.

Former professional boxers Houston Hines and Ike Thomas will assist Montgomery in handling the boys.

Some of the boys now on the club roster include Scott and Linn Dyer of Tillson; Tom Naccarato of Rosendale, Linn Slater of Tillson, battling Mike Heinetz and Billy Williams of Rosendale; Chris and John Dwinell, Tom Thornton and Todd Coopersmith. Their weights vary from 50 pounds to 170 pounds.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, April 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: No day for romantic involvements, but beautiful for listening to the voice of your intuitions. Then make decisions for future advancement. Make your future objectives known to an influential man and get his support. Forge ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now get the support from those you know with background you need, so go after that early. Then launch that project. Advance socially in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can now get those business matters well handled that have been impossible before, since you have the backing of a higher-up. Go through with that public commitment and get benefits therefrom. Read tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) New outlets come to your attention that you would do well to discuss with associates and make them part of your future. A new partner has the right slant for faster advancement. Listen carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You now understand better hod to handle those obligations that are strictly your own and can do so with speed, in a sure fashion. Talk over new ideas with mate. Gain the cooperation you need for them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your deals with others can be far more successful now, as you understand them better, and are wiser. Reconcile with one who has opposed you in the past. Take care of that public matter of importance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Schedule your time so you can handle both outside and indoor work with ease and speed at the same time. Don't neglect some health problem. Gain the vitality you need for bigger operations ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Search for those persons with whom you can have greater happiness now and in the future. Combine your intuition with your good judgment and get right results. Save time for one who has a problem you can help solve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan just how to have more rapport with those who dwell with you, and be sure to make your home more attractive. Work along more sensible lines in business world and get better results. Avoid one who is tricky.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are now wide-awake and can solve those problems that have been difficult before. Come to a better understanding with regular associates. Make this a far more productive day and p.m. than before.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine judgment now and can easily see how to add to present prosperity appreciably. If you have doubts about some monetary matter, consult with an expert in business. Think logically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you get in touch with good pals and those who like you, you can accomplish much that has been hard before. Either accept an invitation extended you, or do some fine entertaining yourself in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find the best way to get the goodwill of bigwigs confidentially so you can pull ahead faster. A more modern way of life is best to look into now. This can bring you greater happiness in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those intelligent young people who can get ahead very quickly provided given an opportunity to be in right circles early in life. The love of people can cause others to give your son or daughter a boost in the right directions. Whatever is connected with the humanities can be a successful outlet for your gifted child. There are some very fine talents in this chart. Give as fine an education as you can.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The only time it pays to be a born loser is if you're on a diet.

If there's a place you've never heard of, chances are the boss will tell you to go there on one of his off-days.

Why doesn't everyone on the block just change junk from one garage to another and avoid the bother of those silly garage sales?

A hen-pecked husband is a fellow whose wife has a mind of his own.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TRIP? (Q.) I am 16 and will be 17 in June. I do a lot of work around the house. I cook and clean and make dinner almost every night.

I wouldn't do anything to get into trouble. I'm not stupid. I don't have a job. I do have dates, but not many. Only about one a month. I am quite good looking. My grades are good.

I am telling you all this so you can know me better. You will have to know me to answer my question. It is this: Two boys and a girl I know want me to drive to Boston, Mass., with them this summer. One of the boys has friends there we can stay with.

How can I get my mom and dad to let me go? My mother doesn't trust me.--Invited in Texas.

(A.) I trust you, but I know that a long trip like you propose can draw a girl into situations in which her good judgment loses its sharp edge.

Wait at least a year to consider a trip like that. Two years would be better.

BRACES: (Q.) This may seem like a dumb question but here goes. I need braces more than anything. I can get them from this dentist for $350 or less.

I have told my parents I will give up my allowance for a year and won't have to have a birthday or Christmas present. They usually spend about $50 on me at Christmas.

They have the money. They just don't know how much I want braces – Not Very Pretty in Michigan.

(A.) The question you ask is not foolish. If your family dentist or a specialist he sends you to says yiu really need braces and if your parents can afford them, you should have them.

Irregular teeth can do much more than just detract from a girl's good looks. They can cause mouth or other trouble later in life. They can even affect one's speech.

That is why I urge teenagers who genuinely are in need of braces to get them and wear them as long as necessary.

I remind them, of course, of two facts: (1.) Braces that aren't really needed will not do any good. (2.) Braces don't guarantee a girl she will be beautiful.

Show this to your parents.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Report on Special Olympics

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's a sports broadcast on ABC-TV April 28 that you may want to see even if you're not much interested in sports.

It's a report on the National Special Olympics, at UCLA, and a partial outline by ABC-TV tells you all you really need to know about what will be presented:

"In preparation for this event, more than 250,000 mentally retarded youngsters participated in local and regional games with more than 40,000 advancing to the state games ...

"There were 2,500 contestants in this second meeting of the Special Olympics—the first games were held in the summer of 1968 in Chicago's Soldier Field—and more than 1,100 volunteers, including Red Cross workers, doctors, nurses and Amateur Athletic Union officials, were there to help the athletes."

As might be expected, television's finest series about the realm of athletics, "Wide World of Sports," is presenting the broadcast of the National Special Olympics.

This Olympic event for the retarded will share billing on the weekly 90-minute "Wide World of Sports" program of April 28 with the Rugby League Cup Final from London.

"There is," notes ABC-TV's summary, "a Special Olympics organization in every state and there are more than 70 universities, physical education and special education departments involved in some aspect of the Special Olympics."

Concerning the games themselves, the network adds: "Forty competition categories and over 300 separate events were held in order to provide a place for competitors at all levels of ability."

One of the top athletes competing was a 23-year-old man who, as ABC-TV says, "executed a beautiful series of front and back flips, butterflies and other floor exercises. (His) performance is more remarkable because he is blind in addition to being retarded."

The host for the national Special Olympics broadcast will be sports commentator Frank Gifford, and, says ABC-TV, "Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver, president of Special Olympics Inc., will help provide ... insight into this unique competition ...

"Assisting head coach Rafer Johnson, former Olympic decathlon champion, in the sports clinics during the Special Olympics were stars of the sports and entertainment worlds such as Rosey Grier, Red Buttons, Stan Love and Jonathan Winters."

And speaking of athletes and entertainers, ABC-TV Wednesday night presented a 90-minute special in which a troupe of acrobats from China offered a remarkable exhibition of their physical and show business skills. The broadcast of the Shenyang troupe was taped in January at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington during a tour by the acrobats.

Opening lead—♠ 9

Yesterday's article showed how a lucky preemptive opening got the opponents to a slam mising the ace and king of trumps.

They might well have reached it without being helped along by the opponents because most syystems fall down on this one situation.

We have a gadget to protect aginst this after we open with a major suit. Specifically, the four-club response to a major suit opening is an unlimited forcing raise — at least it is unlimited except that responder holds exactly four trumps without any of the three top honors.

With yesterday's hand, had South opened one heart North would repsond four clubs; South would look at his queen high suit and sign off at four hearts.

Today we have given North the same hand as yesterday, but changed the South hand a trifle so that his six-card trump suit is headed by the ace.

North responds four clubs and South knows there is a trump trick out against him but only one unless West shows up with all three missing trumps.

To Ease U.S.-Allies Strains

Kissinger Pushes Atlantic Charter

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a major policy speech, Henry A. Kissinger called Monday for "a new Atlantic charter" to ease recent economic, political and military strains between the United States and its old allies in Europe.

"We must strike a new balance between self-interest and the common interest," he said. "We need a shared view of the world we seek to build."

Kissinger told editors attending the annual Associated Press luncheon at the 87th American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) that Europe—along with Japan—has grown stronger and less dependent on the United States.

This, he said, has caused several problems that require a new understanding and a new agreement between the United States and Europe.

For this reason, Kissinger said, President Nixon will engage in a "personal and direct" approach to the leaders of Britain, Italy, West Germany, France, other European countries and NATO later this year.

"It is the President's purpose," Kissinger said, "to lay the basis for a new era of creativity in the West."

By the time Nixon makes his trip, "toward the end of the year," Kissinger said, the United States will have worked out a new Atlantic charter setting goals for the future.

The original Atlantic charter was an eight-point declaration drawn up in 1941 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill that would govern the relationship between Europe and the United States after World War II.

A few hours after Kissinger spoke, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the United States would maintain its political and military commitments as a means of building a stable and peaceful world.

But he said this would mean, among other things, that the United States must resist "tempting" calls to reduce military spending and the number of American troops in Europe.

"Neglect and isolation," Rogers said, "are apt to flourish in the pleasant climate of detente."

In his speech, Kissinger conceded Europe and the United States were no longer as close as they were in the 1940s and 1950s, the post-war era of aid and U.S. protection.

"There have been complaints in America," he said, "that Europe ignores its wider responsibilities in pursuing economic self-interest too one-sidedly and that Europe is not carrying its fair share of the burden of the common defense.

"There have been complaints in Europe," he said, "that America is out to divide Europe economically or to desert Europe militarily or to bypass Europe diplomatically."

Top-Level White House Staffers

Wholesale Resignations Loom

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon ends his Easter vacation today amid reports the Watergate scandal will force wholesale resignations of trusted top-level White House staffers.

During Nixon's five-day stay at the Florida White House, aides confirmed the President spent a good deal of time on Watergate developments. Nixon was to return to Washington today.

With continued speculation that a major housecleaning was being planned by Nixon, White House official business appeared to have dwindled sharply. Preoccupation with the bugging and alleged cover-up of the Democratic party headquarters breakin has openly saddened lower echelon aides.

The President has tapped press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, his senior staffer here, for extra duties during the past few days. Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren has carried the nod as White House spokesman while Ziegler has been unavailable to reporters.

Warren said, "Of course not, no," when asked whether Nixon was aware of the June 17 plans to wiretap the Watergate during his re-election campaign.

He declined to say when Nixon became aware that several of his own aides likely may be implicated in the illegal activity and alleged attempts to cover it up.

There have been reports that presidential counsel John W. Dean III went to Nixon on March 20 and spilled what he knew. Nixon said in a statement a week ago that he reopened his intensive inquiry March 21 on the basis of new charges that came to his attention.

But Warren declined to comment on an ABC broadcast quoting Dean's friends as saying that Nixon called Dean Sunday to wish him a "Happy Easter" and assured him that he was still the White House counsel.

Jury Panel Focuses On Mitchell, Stans

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating a secret payment to President Nixon's re-election campaign has focused on former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, The Washington Post reported in Tuesday editions.

The newspaper reported that the New York grand jury investigating a secret payment by Robert L. Vesco may return indictments this week.

The grand jury began its investigation after Harry L. Sears, a prominent New Jersey politician who headed Nixon's campaign in that state, said he had helped arrange Vesco's $200,000 contribution.

The Post said the money was delivered to Stans three days after the effective date of a federal law requiring disclosure of campaign contributions in federal elections. The contribution went unreported.

The contribution was refunded three months ago by the Committee for Re-election of the President, for which Mitchell served as chairman and Stans was in charge of finances.

The General Accounting Office has asked the Justice Department to look into the case as an apparent violation of the law. Both former Cabinet officials have testified before the grand jury.

The Post said the money was turned over to Stans after a series of meetings between Vesco's representative and Mitchell and Stans.

Mississippi Buries Vast Land Area

By United Press International

An estimated 5,000 flood-displaced persons waited today for their submerged lands to reappear as the rampaging Mississippi River rolled southward under sunny skies and drying winds.

But the mighty river, still burdened by abnormal spring rains, buried more than 1,400 miles along its course from Iowa to the Gulf of Mexico at New Orleans. The National Weather Service said record high crests of the Mississippi and its tributaries were still in store for many towns along the way.

The highest flood crest in history—43 feet—was predicted Thursday for St. Louis, where floodwaters were already lapping at the grassy slope leading up to the tall Gateway Arch.

At least four deaths have been blamed on the latest flood of the Mississippi and its feeder streams.

Record crests were commonplace for Mississippi-bound rivers. The Iowa River reached a depth of 18.1 feet at Wapello, eight above flood stage. The Skunk River was up to 27.1 feet at Augusta, Iowa, more than 12 feet over flood level and more than two feet over the record high in 1960.

An Iowa Civil Defense worker said the situation at Burlington was "a lot worse than in 1965 and that was supposed to be the big one."

A record crest of 23.5 feet was measured at Keokuk and water was still rising over the 16 feet flood mark.

Civil Defense authorities said 3,800 inhabitants of the Quincy, Ill., area hoped to return to their homes today or Wednesday. They were moved out of their flooded dwellings Sunday and Monday.

In St. Charles county of Missouri, where the Missouri River joins the Mississippi, authorities said it was impossible to count the number of persons forced to leave ther homes because of high water.

In Arkansas, Gov. Dales L. Bumpers ordered 50 National Guardsmen to help with the evacuation of flood-endangered areas along the Arkansas River.

In the rich Mississippi Delta region around Greenwood, Miss., agriculture experts estimated the state's cotton crop may be cut by 15 to 20 per cent because of he floods.

Army engineers said the Yazoo River, which climbed to a 37-foot crest during flash flooding last month, would reach its flood stage, 35 feet, by April 30 at Greenwood, Miss., a city about 50 miles east of the Mississippi.

The Mississippi remained at 50.1 feet deep at Vicksburg, about seven feet above flood stage, and the National Weather Service said it would begin a slow rise toward a crest of 51.2 on May 7.

Tax Hike Possible To Slow Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An administration economist, who concedes the economy is growing too fast, says a tax increase is being considered as one means of slowing inflation.

"We are studying the possibilities of inflation-dampening actions," Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said Monday, "and something in the tax field would be a natural thing to consider."

Stein, however, replied when asked if his council was recommending a tax increase now that "no, we are not."

He said there were other ways of curbing the rapid economic growth rate, such as tightening the current Phase III wage-price controls, which have been in effect since Jan. 10, and holding the line on federal spending.

Stein earlier conceded that the economy was growing too fast and observed the trick is to cool off the expansion without plunging the economy into a recession.

Some observers have speculated that a tax increase is the best way to achieve this goal.

Stein said the inflation rate, which recently has surged at its fastest pace since the Korean war, is "not itself very serious."

"The question is what does this portend for the future," he said.
